The Weather.

U. S. WEATHER BUREAU, DULUTH, MINN., Jan.
29.—A rather uncertain condition of affairs exists north of Lake Superior has only moved slightly and is now central over Canada. Light snow is falling at Marquette and Sault Ste. Marie, and has fallen at a few scattered places over the country.The temperature has fallen slightly in the extreme northwest, and although cannot now forecast, there may, and probably will be, a cold wave coming by tomorrow. At present the lowest temperature is 25° at Prince Albert and Hatfield, N. W. T. Elsewhere it is unusually warm, ranging from 30° to 44°.The highest temperature here yesterday was 41°, the lowest last night 25°.DULUTH, Jan. 28.—Local forecast for Duluth and vicinity for twenty-four hours ending at 8 a.
m. Jan. 30: Fair, except light flurries of snow, colder.

B. H. BRIDGEMAN, Observer.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—For Wisconsin: Fair Saturday afternoon; colder; northwest winds.
For Minnesota and the Dakotas: Fair till Sunday; cooler; northwest winds.

A SHORT SERMON ON SIN.

The News of yesterday contained the following very innocent little item which we take as our text today:Twelve madames of houses of ill-fame paid their regular monthly fines in municipal court yesterday.To the good people of Duluth this, when called especially to their attention will awaken a train of thought. And here we would say that The Herald is not attacking the present administration as being worse than some others, but when its moral character is advertised as the one particular qualification to command our suffrages and we are beckoned to look upon this holy thing, its real condition is a proper object of our research.We have purposely taken the above item from the administration advocate that there can be no claim of unfairness, and we would now inquire what does it mean?Does it not mean that the lowest form of vice is practically licensed in our city by an administration that boasts of its virtue and has nothing else to commend it?It will be noticed that this little scene in the municipal court room was no unusual thing. In the words of the administration mouthpiece these women paid "their regular monthly fines." This, then, is and has been the settled policy of the administration. If such licensing of prostitutes is the very climax of virtue, what does the term "wide-open" policy mean?It will be further noticed that this was not the isolated case of a single woman, but "twelve madames of houses of ill-fame" paid their fines. This means that the mistresses of a dozen dens of vice paid their license, which knows with it police protection, for the carnal use of perhaps a hundred girls.Will those who are charging that The Herald is the advocate of a "wide-open" policy, whatever that may imply, sit quietly down in the gloaming by the ingleside and tell us from their heart of hearts if d'Autremont could do worse?And now let us for a moment trace the progress of a ten dollar bill in this business. To make it entirely impersonal we will suppose that some youth who comes from a good family in the East has arrived in Duluth to grow up with the country. With the restraints of home removed and the temptation of countless daily on our business streets he is lured into the path of evil, and, once under the influence of liquor, for it is sold there without license, days may be spent in these abodes till the roll of money dug out of the New England hills is gone. Soon it is paid to the city of Duluth as a license.At the end of the month the mayor or some other official draws it in his salary, and very soon it is invested in the Everett townsite or a Missouri lead mine.This is but a short and simple story which we submit to the consideration of our people that they may say whether this is not a "wide-open" policy if that term has any significance whatever, and that they may decide for themselves whether it is wise for the city to become a partner in or beneficiary of such prostitution.

THE RIGHT STUFF FOR MAYOR.

What we want for mayor is a man of integrity and ability; a man of judgment and experience, with business and executive capacity; a man of means, education and refinement; a man who can represent our city with credit and honor at home and abroad; a man who has grown up with the city, who has demonstrated his capacity and worth, and whose interests are in Duluth—not elsewhere. Such a man we have in Charles d'Autremont, The Herald's candidate, who if elected will give our city a careful and consistent administration, which without any boast of superior virtue will be strong, able and fearless—fully up to the demands of the best public sentiment and every way creditable to Duluth the solid and superb.When the supporters of the present administration charge that all others are "wide-open" candidates they must expect us to inquire into the existing condition of things, and they should be honest enough to tell the public what they mean by a so-called "wide-open" policy, or in what respect it differs from that we now have. From our stand point the present regime would seem to be deserving of that title.

WELL, LET US SEE ABOUT IT.

The News this morning confessed it had been lying about The Herald. Here is another of its falsehoods:The Herald is aware that the election of Mr. d'Autremont means that the city would again be turned over to the control of the gamblers and other disreputable and vicious classes, but it cares nothing for that, because its ideas of rectitude, honor and morality have become vitiated and degraded by the base company into which it has fallen.The Herald last evening asked The News a list of questions regarding the condition of the city which this sheet fails to answer. It has never told us what it means by a "wide-open" policy, though frequently requested to do so, because it doesn't know itself what it means and is merely playing the hypocrite in the campaign. If there is any particular thing it fears Mr. d'Autremont would do which isn't now done, and it will point out such thing, it can have its fears removed or it will be given further assurance that they are well founded. It is too cowardly to define its position, and having already forced it to back down on one lie, even after it had arrogantly reaffirmed it, we can assure our readers the News is equally false and malicious in its other charges. Under its former management the News had regard for truth and decency but it has now stooped to the level of a blackmail sheet and is utterly unworthy of respect. The manager of that paper having recently been disconnected with The Herald after he had tried to fire the editor, the public fully understands the animus of the articles.But the News having charged that if d'Autremont were elected over that paragon of purity, the present administration, the city would be turned over to "gamblers and other disreputable and vicious classes," let us itemize a few of the things we now have and inquire how much of a turn-over the charge implies.There are now in Duluth about fifty places in which liquors are sold without a municipal license, among the number being many houses of prostitution in which liquors can be obtained at any hour of the day or night.In certain rooms of a well known building on Superior street, a gambling den has been run unmolested during the present administration, to the full knowledge of the police, and nearly everybody else.In another well known building on Superior street a gambling house is now running and has been for fifteen months.
Many thousand dollars have changed hands in it.In a well known building on Michigan street a gambling den has been running during most of the present administration. It was called a club room and one of its directors ordered it to support d'Autremont.The Herald denies that the directors held any meeting to consider that proposition.The Herald further denies that it has ever flopped, even when the present manager of the News tried in an unmanly way to make it do so; that while in the interests of the public it urged the nomination of Davis as preferable to Long, and still holds to that opinion, it has supported for election no majority candidate but d'Autremont.The Herald denies that Daniel G.
Cash in any way dictated the course of The Herald in the present or any former campaign further than to protest against a premeditated flop by the order of the now disgraced manager of the News.If this is not definite enough and the aforesaid disgraced manager of the News will be more explicit in his statements, we will give him the information of which in his malignant ignorance he has so much need. As a stockholder of this paper nothing can be concealed from him.The Herald will further assert that under the present management it has never sold an editorial opinion and it never will. It has been offered for sale its support, and it has been offered it in this campaign, but it has not been offered anything by the candidate, or any one of the candidates, whose cause it champions. If the public demands more we can go further.

A SILLY ARGUMENT.

The News points out the jobbing trade of Duluth and claims it all for the present administration. This is too flimsy an argument to catch thoughtful people.
It would be as reasonable to credit Mayor Sutphin with the boom of '86-87 or to charge Davis with putting the News and Tribune in the sheriff's hands. Such talk is not up to the standard of a country lyceum and merely throws ridicule on those who use it. It is worthy only of the brevet journalist of the News.

SOME THINGS DEFINED.

The Herald doesn't claim it is possible to run such a city as Duluth wholly without blemish, and has no purpose to convey that impression to its readers.We do not say nor believe that with d'Autremont as mayor our people would be devoid of guile or that the avenues of sin would be wholly closed. What we do undertake to say is that the unlicensed sale of liquors, now conducted at something like fifty places, would be ferreted out and suppressed, the sale of liquors at houses of ill fame would be stopped, the sale to minors would be for-bidden as the law provides, and assignation houses would not run as they now do in the heart of the city. It that is a wide open policy, make the most of it.

IT AUGURS EVIL.

The present manager of the News runs that paper just like other people bore for oil. Every turn he takes he is so much deeper in the hole. The Herald has sympathy for the nemesis and suggests that those of its directors who jacked the manager up the other day would do well to repeat the dose and shake well before taking. A man who was never so much as a reporter in his life is not very well qualified to guide a great daily through a tempestuous campaign, especially when The Herald is on its trail. What The News needs is more baking powder and less politics while run by kindergarten journalists.

THE NEWS KNOCKED OUT.

The News this morning admits it lied about The Herald and crawls down into its dugout like a whipped cur into its kennel. This was the only thing left for it to do, and it did it as gracefully as could be expected of a willful maligner. But in doing this it emits a parting and pitiful wail.The manager of the News, who was never so much as a newspaper reporter in his life, has a personal grudge against D. G. Cash, who was one of The Herald's stockholders that protested against The Herald flopping on the last day of a campaign when this same amateur journalist thought he was running The Herald. He has now an opportunity to vent his spleen which we hope will be fully utilized, as it gratifies his natural disposition and doesn't hurt anyone else.
The nemesis this morning, while confessing its reiterated falsehood, says:The News asserted on Sunday last that the reason why The Herald had made its contentious flop between two days was that d'Autremont was that it had been ordered to do so by a majority of its directors, at the dictation of a republican attorney who owns stock in The Herald company, and also owns stock in the Duluth Gas and Water company. The News also asserted that several of the directors are slant tools in the hands of this man, and that they invariably jump when he pulls the string.
The News reiterates the main charge that The Herald's flop was the result of the dictation of a stockholder in the Duluth Gas and Water company and it dares The Herald to deny it.To this we need only enter a full and sweeping denial to every statement, asserting with a full knowledge of all the facts that the News lies again and that it cannot prove any one of the charges made. The attorney referred to, mentioned by name in its earlier falsehood, is D. G. Cash. The directors of The Herald company are S. E. Sweeney, J. B.
Howard, D. E. Woodbridge, Geo. W.
Buck and A. J. Frantz. Now will the News be more definite and tell the public what "several" of these are pliant tools of the Gas and Water company through the mystic power of Daniel, and jump when he pulls the string? We want the facts. Moreover the manager of the News is the largest individual stockholder in The Herald—and as such has the acknowledged right to know every action of The Herald company's directors. We urge him to exercise this right and give to the public above his own signature all that has been done. Nothing can be concealed from him, the records are open for his inspection, we hereby empower him to send for persons and papers, and unless he accepts the invitation and proves the charges, public opinion will cooper him up again. Give us the names of the unworthy directors and we will publish the facts to the world.The Herald denies that the managers of the News have in any way dictated its directors ordered it to support d'Autremont.The Herald denies that the directors
held any meeting to consider that proposition.The Herald further denies that it has
ever flopped, even when the present man-

while run by kindergarten journalists.The d'Autremont forces had a big meeting at Central hall last night, there being more in attendance than the seating capacity of the building would accommodate. Dr. La Douer, Dr. Rene, Mr. Collett, Mr. Dominique and Mr. d'Autremont made addresses. The meeting was an extemporaneous affair but most enthusiastic. The republicans had a good meeting at Seven hall but the attendance, though good, was not so large. Victory for d'Autremont is in the air.It is not in the interests of Duluth that our streets are made the promenade of courtiers who thus boldly advertise their calling and at eveningtide allure the youth who would otherwise be free from guile. Once in the toils of these women with free liquors at their command, the downfall of the giddy young man is but few days and full of trouble.
The Herald thinks that with an alert and competent police force this could be stopped. Some effort at least should be made to do so.One of the pleasant features of the lumbermen's visits to Cloquet was the hospitality extended the Duluth delegation by C. S. Shaw, president of the Cloquet Lumber company. A very joyous time was had and the Zenith citizens were made as much at home as if they had always lived in that blithesome river town.With 1,800 voters registered in the Fourth ward the contest there assumes the proportions of a city campaign.
Many republicans will support Baldwin, but there is no certainty of the outcome as the ward, politically, is very lopsided.

Republican vs. Democrat.

To the Editor of The Herald: I'm an old Scotch-American (if anybody can tell me what that is) and although a resident of this country for four years, I have never taken sufficient interest in politics to care which side I voted on. Now, however, in view of the near approach of the local elections, and the still later presidential election, perhaps you, Mr. Editor or some of the readers of The Herald, would kindly give me a practical definition of republicanism vs. democracy. A series of articles on such a subject would be of great interest to many of your readers, and

"When I Remember."

[Dear Bagpipes,] Sorrow lullamize our race:
Tears are the showers that fertilize this world And memory of future joys beneath warm The heart that once did hold them.

They are poor.

That have lost nothing; they are poorer far Who, losing, have forgotten; they must poor Of all who lose and they might forget.
For life is on, and in its warp and woof There runs a thread of gold that others fair, And sometimes in the pattern shows most sweet That we have kept. But, oh, this thread of gold We would not have it turn! Let us turn And look back upon the wondrous web And when it is spun, we shall know That memory is possession.When I remember something that I had,
But which is gone, and I must do without, Sometimes wonder how I can be glad.
Even in cowpity time, when legions sprout, My days would not be better days should I forget.When I remember something promised me, But which I have not, and I must have none, Because the promisee I no more see,
I sometimes wonder how I can be glad.
When I remember this, I mourn—but yet My happiest days are not the days when I forget.

There are Different Kinds.

Don't think because the diamond dye blacks are advertised most that there are no other colors. These simple and pure home dyes come in all shades, as:
Scarlet, Bottle Green, Maroon, Indigo Blue, Garnet, Seal Brown, and some forty other colors. And they are all so simple that a child can use them.

SHE BOUNCED HIM.

France is no Sooner Out of One Journalistic Scrap Than She Falls Into Another.

Utterly Disregarding All Laws of Consistency, She Brutally Expels a Levantine Journalist.

It is Surmised That This Action is Pursuant to a Demand from the Sultan.

PARIS, Jan. 30.—Hadtly has France scrambled out of the unpleasant position she thoughtlessly placed herself in by protesting against the expulsion from Bulgaria of a French newspaper man, Mr. Chadourne, than she expels a Levantine journalist, M. Justin Marengo, of the Latin catholic community known as Francis, from her territory in apparently the most outrageous manner by order of the minister of the interior, M. Constans.

If the account given of this affair by M. Marengo is correct the agents of M. Constans have acted in a more high-handed manner than did the agents of M. Stambouloff. M. Marengo has appealed to M. de Freycinet, president of the council, protesting against his expulsion from France and demanding that he be allowed to return. The following is M. Marengo's account of the affair: "On Jan. 10, 1892, at 8 o'clock in the evening two police officers appeared at my house and requested me to follow them to the district commissary of police who had a 'little communication to make to me.' I arrived at the commissary where the secretary informed me on the part of his chief, M. Gaurin, that I was to be expelled as a man dangerous to the public peace. The two officers then took me to the prefecture with all the common prisoners arrested that morning. I was even hit violently to allow my arms which might have been about me to fall. I was then brutally shut up in a cold, wet cell. From that they took me to the measuring department where after being almost undressed, I was made to stand on the cold floor in my bare feet. I was forced to wait my turn to be examined, photographed and measured. At about 11 o'clock at night we reached Mons, when two detectives suddenly informed me that I was free.

This punishment had lasted fifteen hours. I was just getting over an illness following an attack of influenza which had kept me in bed and was not suitably dressed for traveling in such severe cold weather without proper clothing. I might have had to sleep in the open air at Mons had I not fortunately had by me a little money. As it was, indeed, on reaching Brussels, I felt seriously ill and it is only today—a week after my expulsion—that I have been strong enough to draw up my petition to the prefecture with all the difficulty this protest to inform you of the outrageous and inhuman proceedings, like the acts of an executioner, in a country which only the other day made a great diplomatic stir about the expulsion of M. Chadourne, correspondent of the Havas Agency at Sofia, that M. Chadourne was expelled violently and illegally, I admit. But he was not so much a trouble maker as I am. Moreover, he had been warned beforehand on several occasions. As for me, I was simply carried off, as was not allowed an hour to see my wife again, to attend to my affairs, to provide myself with money or my papers.

"Again, there is no analogy between the Chadourne case and mine. I have never attacked France or any of her public men. I have been merely busy with Eastern affairs—in particular with Turkish, which I know completely. The only plausible explanation that I have so far found of my case is that my name was asked for by the sublime porte. It would seem that the sultan had decided to make me a pasha, and to Bulgaria to grant some sort of satisfaction to France in the Chadourne affair, I refuse to believe in this version, although it reaches me through several deputies who have kindly informed me for me, M. Constans. But even if this be true, there was no necessity for maltreating me; it would have been enough to appeal to me personally. I would willingly have sacrificed myself for the dignity of France or its government."

ITS CONDITION IMPROVING.

The Affairs of the Duluth Red Wing and Southern Railway. The affairs of the Duluth, Red Wing & Southern railroad seem to be assuming a more favorable turn and some decided movements may, it is said, be expected within the next ten days. The recent meeting of the stockholders of the road and of the construction company held at Red Wing was, so far as can now be ascertained, a most important one. The prospects of the road, in a financial way, are very flattering and it is probable that the necessary arrangements will be perfected soon to go ahead with the work of construction from this end of the line. The proposition made by the Soo line some time ago is still open. The Soo road having the Canadian Pacific for an eastern connection, has at present no means of reaching Duluth or deep water navigation. The proposition submitted was this: The Soo people asked the Red Wing company to bridge and grade the line from the Soo crossing to the lakes. The Soo then agreed to take hold of the work, put down the ties and iron the road. This proposition it is said is now in the hands of the executive committee of the Red Wing, and it is within the range of probabilities that it may be accepted, although it is quite possible that outside aid may not be required.

The Municipal Judgeship.

In our issue of the 27th inst. appears a letter on the above subject, over the nom de plume, lawyer 2, by the man in the table he blows on his fingers to make them warm and blows on his portage to make it cold. He urges the election of Mr. Powell because he has been in the practice of law for the past seven years and has been successful in his practice. Then, because of the absence of these same qualifications in N. A. Gearhart he urges you to support him for special judge, because as he says, "Mr. Gearhart has not had a very large experience as a lawyer and possesses in an eminent degree another requisite for a judge, to wit, the avoidance of a law suit." Yet no one, perhaps, but Lawyer ever thought that legal or judicial ability is necessarily associated with avoidance of a law suit. Lawyer further adds: "Licenses from courts may authorize men to practice, but they cannot make lawyers; a man becomes a lawyer by hard work and unremitting study." Hence, again, you should support Mr. Gearhart because he received a license from the court two years ago, and has never yet practiced law, and has no experience as such, but he has avoided suits; ergo, he should be elected.

Mr. Editor permit me to call attention to an editorial in the Tribune of Jan. 27. A portion of it is in the following words: "Mr. Gearhart is a lawyer of unquestioned ability, and is a native of America, having been born in Livingston county, (township not given), New York, 42 years ago." His ability as a lawyer has never been questioned for the same reason that his ability as a civil engineer, architect or theologian has never been questioned. There is no doubt that he was born in America, and born, too, of American parents, and the American constitution, though it is quite possible that some of his ancestors were born in Europe. But why mention the place of his birth, except as a knowledge of his ancestry in his favor and against his opponent? The office seeker or journalist who appeals to race prejudice is unworthy the name of American citizen.

H. W. Wine, the democratic and people's candidate, was not born in America, but came here in early boyhood; has lived in the state of Minnesota for twenty-three years, and for several years of the peace and clerk of Chippewa county; was admitted to the bar in 1887, has practiced his profession in Duluth ever since, and has as large a practice and is as successful therein as most lawyers of the same number of years of experience. He is a lawyer in good, practical common sense, nor even in avoidance of law, qualities so much relied upon by the opposition.

A year ago, the office of special municipal judge having become vacant, Mr. Wine was elected, and was a good record for appointment. Regarding such appointment Judge Powers, well known to the bar and to many of the citizens of this city, sent the following letter of recommendation to Governor Merriam.

GREAT FALLS, MINN., Jan. 1, 1891.

DEAR SIR: I hear that an old friend and acquaintance of mine, Eric L. Wine, has applied for the office of special municipal judge of the city of Duluth. He formerly resided at this place, and later at Montevideo, Chippewa county. He was clerk of court in that county for five years, and for several years village justice of Montevideo. When he was admitted to the bar, I was a member of the committee that examined him. I have known him well and intimately for the last fifteen years. His long and varied experience, his legal ability, his integrity, his kind and gentlemanly demeanor towards all who come in contact with him, his business matters, render him, in my opinion, especially fitted and qualified for the position of municipal judge. In the exercise of the discretion vested in you, I hope you may see fit to appoint him to the position. Yours truly, GORHAM POWERS, Judge Twelfth Judicial District.

KNOCKED DOWN AGAIN.

C. d'Autremont Knocks the News Down and Sets Himself Right.

To the Citizens of Duluth:

So far during this campaign, I have paid no attention to the false and malicious statements that have been made regarding me and the policy I would pursue if elected mayor of the city of Duluth at the coming municipal election. But I desire to say, right here, and once for all, that the article in the Daily News this morning, signed "A Republican," stating that I had promised, if elected, to make Captain Doran chief of police of this city, is false in every respect. I have never promised to make him chief of police. I have never been asked to do so by any one; and I further state that I have not promised or agreed to appoint any man to any office, and further that I will not make a promise to any person for any position.

I have gone into this campaign untrammelled by pledges to any one, and "shall fight it out on this line if it takes all summer." I would rather be defeated than be elected to any office and bound hand and foot by promises and pledges, so that I could not fill what vacancies might occur for the best interests of the people of Duluth.

And I again brand that letter and all its contents as false, lying and malicious. C. D'AUTREMONT, JR. Duluth, Jan. 30th, 1892.

DEEP WATERWAYS

This Important Subject Discussed at Length Today Before the Senate and House Committee.

Among Others, Mr. S. A. Thompson Urges the Necessity for Speedy and Favorable Action.

Different Speakers Present Eloquent Statistics Showing the Need of the Deep Channel.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—The delegates appointed by the deep waterways convention held at Detroit in December last to urge congress to authorize immediate commencement and speedy completion of an unobstructed channel not less than twenty feet deep to the lakes and their connecting waters, between Chicago, Duluth, Superior and Buffalo, appeared today before a joint committee consisting of members of the senate committee on commerce and the house committee on rivers and harbors and foreign and interstate commerce.

George H. Ely of Cleveland, opened the hearing by presenting a series of resolutions in favor of the project adopted by the convention at its meeting in Detroit. Mr. Ely, Hon. H. W. Seymour, of the Sault Ste. Marie chamber of commerce, S. A. Thompson, secretary of the Duluth chamber of commerce, Gen. O. M. Poe of the United States engineering corps, and others spoke for the relations and urged speedy and favorable action by congress on the project.

The speakers reviewed the growth of the traffic on the great lakes and submitted statistics showing how enormous had been the increase. It was claimed that twenty feet of water between Lakes Superior and Huron meant and always did mean twenty feet through every other channel on the lakes. The principal object of the convention, which the delegation represented, was the consideration of this great subject and to urge upon congress the necessity of immediate and comprehensive action.

A report from Gen. Poe was submitted, estimating the cost of the improvement contemplated at $3,394,835.

Union Men in the Saddle.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I see communications in the News from Mr. Bevers and "Jack Plane." The former of whom I know personally and also know him to be a member of a labor union, and who works at his trade for living. The latter I do not know by that name, but think I know his right name and if he is the party I have in mind I know him to be a member, but when he has done a day's work at his trade I don't know, and it is some years since I first knew him. I do not agree with these two writers in their remarks upon the present city election, and how the union men of Duluth should vote.

My ideas on this question are simple: The new salvation army barracks on Superior street was formally opened last night and the campaign is now on. Captain Peckles was in charge of the meeting. His assistant was Capt. Howell, of Chicago.

The gross earnings of the Duluth and Iron Range railroad for the year ending December 31, are reported at $1,454,120.53. The Duluth & Winnipeg in the same time earned $88,184.35.

THE NEWS COPPERED AGAIN.

Messrs. R. H. Harris, S. F. Snively and George Spencer Deny the Charge.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Mr. Robert H. Harris and George Spencer at their option came to my office on Friday, Jan. 22, and asked a conference with me. Courtesy demanded that I grant it. They asked whether The Herald would support Davis. I told them that I did not know; that The Herald was a Duluth paper and aimed to advance and maintain what it deemed the best interests of the city; that politically it was independent; but that an election for mayor being at hand and the candidates now all in the field, The Herald would, of course, take some stand and support one of them; that, though president of The Herald company I was not The Herald and could not speak for it; that I had been questioned a great deal regarding what was to be the position of the paper in the majority contest and that I wanted the question settled, and that there would probably be a meeting of the owners of the paper that afternoon to consider the matter. I did then say that personally I was favorable to Davis, but I did not say I would vote for him, though I say that Mr. Cash and Williams were emphatically in favor of Mr. d'Autremont. I spoke of the paper as being run as a business enterprise consistent with the principles here outlined. These statements more correctly express the conversation than the following, which appeared in the News this morning and is not a fair report of the information which Messrs. Harris and Spencer gave that paper:

"We've got to use some policy in this matter, The Herald. We are getting considerable advertising from the democrats. Mr. Cash and Mr. Williams are strongly in favor of d'Autremont and want the paper to come out for him. There will be a meeting of the directors this afternoon to decide the matter, and of course their wishes will have to be considered. Personally I am for Davis and will vote for him."

S. F. SNIVELY.

We affirm the above statement made by Mr. Snively.

GEORGE SPENCER.

R. H. HARRIS.

Matt Carroll.

Some rather wild rumors regarding the permanency of the candidacy of Matthew Carroll, who has secured the nomination for alderman in the First ward at the hands of the democratic and people's parties, have been about lately and The Herald aims to set the matter in a proper light before its many readers. Mr. Carroll says he is in the field to stay, believing that a majority of the First ward suffrages will be cast for him next Tuesday. Mr. Carroll's previous course in the council and in all public affairs has been such that he believes the people will endorse his candidacy at the polls next week. He, furthermore, believes that he is a representative citizen of the municipal division from which he seeks support, and if he is the choice of the people there can be no doubt of his ability and intention to serve them in the best manner. Mr. Carroll is not a typical office seeker and only entered the campaign after earnest solicitations on the part of many of his fellow citizens and neighbors.

Paddy Doran Denies.

I will deposit a hundred dollars to be paid to the man or men who will furnish reasonable evidence that any of the present candidates for mayor of whatever party have mentioned to me, or that any of such candidates' managers in any behalf have done so, the matter of appointment for chief of police or any other position in the gift of the city government.

P. DORAN.

He Will Retire.

Geo. B. Haycock, who has had charge of the Lyceum since its opening, will retire on account of ill health on Feb. 1, and Mr. Miller will assume control of the house. F. J. Marsh will be acting manager for the present.

LINCOLN NOT IN IT.

We have been pleased to read the report of the speeches at the Long meeting in Svea hall Thursday night as given in the columns of that august organ, the rodentic. We were, however, not a little surprised that our friend Charley Towne should claim that when LaFayette consented to help Washington fight the battles of our country he did so on condition that Frenchmen in the hereafter would vote for Charley Long for mayor of Duluth. This is what might be called a sort of heirloom argument that is not creditable to the personal charms and Augustan claims of our own pretender. The speaker doubtless noticed the slight he had shown his candidate, for a little later in his address he asserted, not in so many words but sure, but in effect, that Charley Long freed the slaves; or that, if he didn't free them, he is the only man who can keep them from going back into slavery.

This would be a clincher if it were true, but we must assure our republican friends that the speaker put it too strong.
The mayor of Duluth is a very great personage, we all admit, but as yet no one filing that place has gone into the emanicipation business to any great extent.
We feel that we can say in behalf of Mr. d'Autremont, that if elected mayor he will not repeal any amendments to the federal constitution nor do anything discreditable to the memory of La Fayette. He is under no pledge to this effect, but we are willing to vouch for him in the matter. It is to be regretted that Lincoln and Charley Long couldn't have lived at the same time and played together the double role as emancipator of a race and preserver of the Union.

But it is fortunate for us there is no double role Charley can't play quite acceptably himself, and if there is any two-faced act our friends would like to see we will undertake to present it with that lightning change artist, the gentleman from the Second ward.

THE PROBABLE RESULT.

The present campaign, although regular party nominees are in the field, is not being fought on party lines, and as yet all estimates of the result are but guess work. There is very little basis for an estimate, as Duluth is a growing city and many citizens will cast their first ballot here next Tuesday. This leaves an unknown quantity in the problem which nothing but a count of the votes can discover. On general principles it can be said that about 35 per cent of the votes of Duluth are democratic, and if d'Autremont polls the full party strength, as he seems sure to do, with the additions that are morally certain to come from other sources, his election is the most probable result of the contest.
Should Long poll 1000 or 12000 votes, which now seems probable, d'Autremont is an almost certain winner. The total vote will not be far from 5000, and a vote of 2000 is most likely to elect. The odds are surely with d'Autremont today and he is steadily growing stronger. The outlook is exceedingly hopeful, but the weather on election day may prove the biggest rookback of the campaign. We make no idle boast, but believe that if the friends of good government forget not the trust imposed in them our candidate will go in with a handsome plurality. The other forces, however, are working hard and are more lavish of men and money. Their labors should be destroyed by a grand rally at the polls.

NOT A PROMISING CANDIDATE.

If elected mayor of Duluth Charles d'Autremont will go into that office without a pledge of place to any man, and without promise or obligation to any clique or clan. He will go there with his hands free and will at all times do that which in his own good judgment seems best and wisest for Duluth.
Neither he nor his committee is bribing any man for his vote or influence nor paying any paper for its support, although one of our contemporaries tendered its services for a consideration. The campaign in his behalf has been a clean and manly one, devoid of subterfuge and hypocrisy but full of vim and vigor. No silly boasts have been made as to the result and no one has attempted to belittle the opposition. It has been a square fight to a finish, and we believe when time is called on Tuesday next victory will perch upon his banner.

Did somebody pull the string?

Will that wide open advocate, our dugout contemporary, please inform us whether a wide open policy is one that is ajar or merely one that has a jug?
And if so, why? The present one seems to have both, and if there is anything the News wants that it can't see, will it just ask for it? Our motto is to please.

It was a corker, and it bottled up the News, which we may hereafter kindly allude to as our demijohn contemporary.

THE NEWS LIES AND LAYS DOWN AGAIN.

This morning's News continues its retraction on the installment plan. In the course of an editorial it says:

The News did not state and does not state that, when Mr. Cash used his influence towards the Herald's dog from Davis to d'Autremont, he was actuated by any improper motives arising out of his connection with the Duluth Gas and Water company. We understand, however, that such an inference has been drawn by some people, and as we had no intention whatever of charging Mr. Cash with such motives we deem it but just to him to express our sincere regret that we were thus unintentionally the cause of doing him an act of injustice.

So the News "did not state and does not state," that in this matter Daniel G.
Cash was "actuated by any improper motives arising out of his connection with the Duluth Gas and Water company." Well, then, we will ask our contemporary to explain not only what it meant by a wide-open policy, but what it meant by "the following language which appeared in its editorial columns on January 26:

It appears that Daniel G. Cash's dictation that the Herald should support d'Autre-mont was prompted by more than a desire to secure a "wide-open" administration. It was also caused by a desire to defeat Mayor Davis because he had opposed the plan of the Gas and Water company. In the light of the two years of his administration to prevent the company's plan from being carried out, the Herald's editorial is a stockholder in the Gas and Water company and in case the people had voted to purchase the plan at the figure named he would have received a handsome amount for his services. In this light on Mayor Davis, he has misled the aid of some other men who have large interests in that company.

If a malignant liar was ever treed up a stump it is in this case, and we submit the question to an honorable public for an honest verdict. The habit of lying has become so fixed upon the News that even in its retraction it steps out of its way to do so. Why, if it had any sense, did it not omit those simple words, "the News did not state" and just make it a plain "does not state," which would have been in better taste and quite sufficient.
But the habit could not be shaken off.
So it lied again.

Hereafter we are to presume that when the News says a thing it means the very opposite. And it therefore seems unnecessary to deny again the other faked up charges which it makes, for if some one should touch the button it would come out tomorrow and deny that it ever said so. When it says there was a meeting of The Herald directors, it means, by its own interpretation, that there was no meeting. And when it says a majority of the directors ordered The Herald to support d'Autremont, it means of course that they did not do so.

We had overlooked the fact that this is leap year. It flows earlier in leap years.
Of course we shall not complain. So long as it has flopped we are satisfied.
If its manager carried it clear through a campaign without flopping he would be inconsistent, and if there is anything we can't tolerate in a loved one it is inconsistency. The jewel is preserved.

The facts which The Herald has given to the public are just what the people want and they are making votes for d'Autremont. Many citizens have been undecided as to how they would vote, but as they survey the whole situation with the knowledge placed at their command, the d'Autremont ranks are being rapidly recruited. Everybody is satisfied he would give our city a clean, able and responsible administration, and he will get the votes of the solid citizens.
Better join in with the winners.

The News has slipped a cog in the department of veracity. Well, let it go, it didn't know what it was talking about.
The boys are young yet and never ran a paper before, though they have run several behind. In engaging their force the News company did well to include a receiver. This shows a degree of financial forethought worthy of a bigger town than Duluth. We have no small administration for their capacity.

Why don't the nemesis come right out and say it's a darn fool and begin over?
It has been maligning our best citizens, as it freely admits, and of course it is lying about d'Autremont. The public will understand the situation and our singular contemporary has lost its grip. Its influence is nil. Honesty is the best policy, as well in journalism as elsewhere.

The Herald is having a little fun throwing grape shot into the ranks of the enemy. They are running like stampeded fellows. Where's one of the two dozen fellows Charley Long has promised should be pound master? Gather in the stragglers. It is a grand old round up. Let the good work go on.

"I began on Long, but soon found I was mistaken in the man, then paused to consider the claims and see the foibles of the present administration, and now I am going to vote for d'Autremont," said a straight out republican last night.

The morning nemesis runs like a jack rabbit. Every jump is higher and longer than the one before. False, fleeting, perjured nemesis, be gone!

You ought to see the News dig out of its dugout when The Herald of truth gets on its trail. Its fun for the other folks.

The caravan is coming. Get the flesh pots ready. The followers of Long will take crow, please.

The news was running on the wide open policy till The Herald made it shut up.

If Duluthians do their duty d'Autre-mont will be the next mayor of Duluth.

What did you remark? Oh, yes, of course you'll vote for Dote.

There's a corker on in the News office.
Sh-h-h, keep still!

WHY WAS IT?

We see the chief of police has a word to say in a morning paper about saloons being closed at 11 o'clock. The chief, of course, is not responsible for what he doesn't know, but perhaps he can inform the public how it happened that a certain prominent bar was open till long after the legal hour the night the lumbermen were here, and although complaint was entered by the proper officer no notice was taken of it at headquarters. Would this be a wide-open policy if d'Autremont did it? The Herald isn't finding any fault, but we want the facts spread on the record.

NOT A DUDE.

Some of the silk-stocking crowd are complaining today that d'Autremont doesn't put his hair in the middle. We pleaded guilty for him. d'Autremont is not a dude, but is a common everyday citizen such as any workman would like to meet or to vote for. Moreover, he is a man of ability and worth and is every way solid with the business interests of Duluth. It is said that W. C.
Sherwood started the story, but we hope he withdrew it, as it has not appeared only in the News which nobody believes.

BEWARE, O, CAESAR!

In the hurry of the campaign we have almost forgotten the First street rodentic.
But we take this opportunity to remark that we are not, as charged, trying to "crush" Two-Faced Charley "into" the very earth. It is the rodentic itself that led him into a trap and is now running him into a hole. Beware the idea of February, O, Caesar! Thou rat-trap, clap-trap statesman, beware! Salah!

THE LINKS OF LOVE.

The campaign seems to be passing off without any ill feelings, much to the delight of The Herald and its many readers who deplore personalities or unkindness. The Herald generally calls things by their right names, but it does so with a profound feeling of love and fraternity which it hopes in its haste it will not inadvertently disguise.

PROGRESS AND POVERTY.

The News began the campaign with no argument but a sore toe, and now it has put its whole foot in it.

Yesterday it said it wouldn't back down. Today it said it was glad to do so. Didn't The Herald say the nemesis would flop before the campaign closed.
We thought it would put it off till the last day of the campaign and erred only in the measure of our generous feeling.
leap year. It flows earlier in leap years.

THE MAYOR OF MONTREAL.

Says His Health is Due to the Same Remedy

That Commodore Howell Recommended to Secretary Blaine.

Canadians Commend the Worthy Mayor for His Frank Advice.

MONTREAL, P. Q., Jan. 22.—Hon.
James McShane, M. P. P., mayor of Montreal, is one of the most public spirited men in Canada.

He possesses many strong characteristics which help to make the successful ruler, politician and businessman. Some of these characteristics are strongly developed in Mayor McShane's every day life, and are worthy of the admiration they receive.

It has been well said of him that when he knows that he is doing his duty there isn't power enough in the provinces to cause him to swerve from it. He is an outspeaking opponent of charlatanism and deception, but is ever ready to lend his assistance to whatever is worthy and meritorious.
Last spring Mayor McShane, owing to overwork, was completely run down and prostrated. He was confined to his house for a time and was a very sick man. It was a critical time and his physicians sought for the best means of recovery—the most effective recuperator, that he might be able with as little delay as possible to carry on his manifold business.
Upon their advice he acted as many other men in the city have done; he decided without hesitation to try the efficacy of Paine's celery compound, having heard much of its wonderful results.

He was not disappointed. His experience with this great remedy was so satisfactory, and so gratifying to his family and friends, that a few weeks ago he sent the proprietors a strong testimonial which speaks volumes and adds conclusive proof to the statements of the physicians, that of all the remedies that can be had Paine's celery compound stands far above all others in honest and great results.

Mayor McShane says that Paine's celery compound has given him great strength and a good appetite, two requisites which every man should possess.
His letter to Wells & Richardson Co. is as follows:

MAYOR'S OFFICE, CITY HALL,
Montreal, 17th Oct., 1891.
GENTLEMEN: It is with extreme pleasure that I give you a testimonial in favor of your great remedy, popularly known as Paine's celery compound.
I used it at a time when I was overworked and run down. The use of the compound has given me a good appetite, and made me much stronger than I was before I used it.

I cheerfully recommend it to all in need of a tonic and strengthener. Yours very truly, Mayor of Montreal.

A Typo Talks.
To the Editor of The Herald:
I noticed a communication in yesterday morning's News from Alfred Bevers expressing his opinion in the present municipal campaign. He objects to the statements of several union men, who have declared their opinion in the present
candidates of non-union papers, and call upon all union workmen to do likewise. Mr. Bevers professes to be a good union man and I have heard him repeatedly state that anything in the cause of labor should meet with the united support of every man true to the principles of unionism. It would be well for Mr. Bevers to practice what he preaches or his preaching is all in vain. At the present time labor is afforded an excellent opportunity to prove itself true to its friends. How would Mr. Bevers like it if Mr. Davis had his suit made in a scab shop? Would that be right? Then in this case he couldn't use scab papers to show his cause and must abide by the consequences of his bad company.

Can you be in need of a pair of pants for immediate wear and pass our window without pausing at least a moment to examine those therein marked at $5.00?

Of course you can't. It would be indeed strange if you didn't stop to take a look at them.

Many a pair we've sold by having those few displayed in the show windows.

Every day lessens the variety of styles to choose from, 'cause such pants at five dollars a pair can't rest long where they are.

AND It's not strange that they are selling so rapidly. Five dollars will hardly be likely to BUY AGAIN such pants as they, 'cause, mark you, they'll cost at any other time but during our Great February Pantaloons Sale, seven or eight of

YOUR DOLLARS. It's seldom, indeed, that such PANTS

THE EIDER BOOMED

One of the Finest of the North German Lloyd Fleet on the Rocks at Atherfield.

Cradled at the Mercy of an Angry Sea and Surrounded on All Sides by Rocks.

Heroic Guardsmen Labor Under the Utmost Disadvantage in Rescuing the Imperiled Passengers.

LONDON, Feb. 1.—The steamship Eider, of the North German Lloyd steamship line, Capt. Hencke, which left New York for Bremen on Jan. 23, went ashore last night on the Atherfield rocks nine miles west of Ventnor, Isle of Wight, during a heavy fog.

The passengers became so alarmed and pleaded so earnestly to be allowed to go ashore that the Eider's commander consented to allow some of them to do so and 13 of the passengers were safely landed at Atherfield, in the lifeboat after passing through an experience among the waves off shore that they are not likely to forget for the remainder of their lives.

The life boat was tossed about like a cork, her passengers and crew were repeatedly half-drowned beneath the crests of towering breakers and were repeatedly lost to view from the ship and from the shore. The drenched and half-drowned passengers and life savers were heartily cheered upon landing and received every assistance possible.

The steamship cradled in a spot surrounded on all sides by dangerous rocks which are so close together that even the light draught life boats experience the utmost difficulty in getting near enough to permit of passengers and mail bags being swung off into them. Everything possible is being done for the distressed vessel. Tugs and life boats are struggling to reach the Eider, but the cruel rocks combined with the heavy sea and terrible wind prevent these crafts from reaching her and it is now feared that the Eider is doomed to destruction and that there will be serious loss of life among her passengers. The scene off Atherfield is grandly terrible. As the day wears on the condition of the Eider becomes more and more serious. She is now firing minute guns of distress.

The Eider left New York on Jan. 24. There were 19 first cabin, 25 second cabin passengers, and 175 steerage passengers and about 70 in the crew. The vessel is 5500 tons register and was considered one of the best vessels of the North German Lloyd line. The passengers were mostly Germans, Scandinavians and Danes returning to their native lands. Her cargo consists of a large consignment of goods for English and German manufacturers.

SPURGEON CALLED HOME. One of the World's Most Famous Preachers is no More.

LONDON, Feb. 1.—Rev. Charles H. Spurgeon died at his home at Mentone at 11:05 last night.

Rev. Chas. Hadden Spurgeon was born on June 19, 1834, in Kelvedon, Essex. He received an ordinary education under strong religious influences. He became a village preacher at Tavistock, and soon after became pastor of a Baptist chapel at Waterbeach. At this period, only 17 years old, he delivered a series of discourses which attracted immense crowds and spread his fame through England and even America as the "Boy Preacher."

He preached for the first time in London in 1853 with such success that the edifice had to be enlarged to accommodate the rapidly growing congregation. Finally the Metropolitan tabernacle was built, which holds 4000 or 5000 people, and there the famous preacher has remained to this day.

Says He is Innocent. John Borgesser, a married man living at 112 West Third street was arranged in the municipal court this morning charged with bastardy on the complaint of Mary Redlock. He pleaded not guilty and Feb. 8th was fixed as the date for his examination. He was released on $3000 bail.

The girl, Mary Redlock, is about 10 years old, and is the daughter of Joseph Redlock, who runs a meat market on East Second street. Borgesser, whom she accuses of being the father of the child, has been employed in the shop for nearly two years as a butcher.

A Large Sale. Sixty dozen neckwear in one day and bid with a two tie limit to each customer, but that is exactly the amount M. S. Burrows & Co. sold during their neckwear sale last Saturday.

Death of Mrs. Wieland. By the death of Mrs. R. Wieland yesterday, Duluth loses another of its pioneer women. Mrs. Wieland was 58 years old, and was the mother of Mrs. Heiman Beier. The funeral will take place Wednesday.

As we are expecting our spring stock in by February, we have concluded to clean out our stock of winter goods at a large discount, from $10 to $15 a suit. Mueller Bros.

Polls are open from 6 a. m. till 7 p. m.

Joseph Chudinsky, the trunk man, of 16 Second avenue west, has bought the stock of E. S. Dodd and removed to 200 West Superior street, where he will continue the business under the name of Duluth Trunk factory.

Polls are open from 6 a. m. till 7 p. m.

Polls are open from 6 a. m. till 7 p. m.

Have you seen the terrace drive souvenir spoons at Day's, 315 West Superior street.

Grand Supper. Served by the ladies of St. Clement's congregation at 515 Fifth street, Feb. 1, 1892. A beautiful parlor open will be given away the same evening. Addresses will be given by several of the leading politicians of the city, among whom will be some of the candidates for mayor. Everybody invited.

Voters of the Fifth ward. If you wish to vote for the furniture dealer nominee of the peoples party in the Fifth ward, don't forget that C. O. NELSON is the man, as there is another Nelson, the nominee of the republican party in the field.

A very flimsy reason has been given to the voters of the First ward for voting against Matt Carroll for alderman. He is, they say, so interested in his private business as to be unable to give the necessary time to city affairs if elected. As a matter of fact, Mr. Carroll while a successful business man, would have more time than usual with business men, to devote to city matters. He is a lumberman and his time is actively employed in this only about four months in the year, and he has then Mr. Fletcher as his foreman so that at this season as well as others he could give all the time required to the matters incidental to an official position. It will take a reason more weighty than this to destroy the hold he has upon the voters of the ward.

Alex. S. Wilson. Voters of the Third ward, irrespective of party, should vote for Alexander S. Wilson for alderman. He is a young man of liberal views, a business man, and deeply interested in the management of public affairs of the Third ward. Vote for him.

BEWARE OF ROORBACKS,

Some are Likely to be Sprung on the Public Tonsil.

It is rumored on the street that some campaign roorbacks will be sprung at the Long meeting in the Temple tonight when it is too late to run down the falsehoods. The campaign has afforded plenty of opportunity to put all the facts before the voters, and anything dragged in tonight may safely be set down as the work of desperate men. We hope nothing so unworthy will be done, but if done it will not go unrebuked.

PERSONAL.

Henry Truelson returned from his Washington trip this morning and casually remarked that the weather was a little wintry here.

Prospects were bright for the election of the democratic candidates at tomorrow's battle of the ballots.

POLISH MEETING. A Good Gathering of Poles in the Evening at the Polish Club.

There was a well attended meeting yesterday afternoon in Svea hall of Polish laborers whose employer, makes it almost impossible for them to meet at any other time. Among the speakers was C. d'Auremont, candidate for mayor, who made a strong speech urging the claims of good government.

Some pertinacious remarks with the New of today with its usual facility turned and distorted, were made upon this paragraph. Mr. d'Auremont's plea for a "wide open" policy and declared himself for the suppression of the vice. He held that the assignment can be driven from the heart of the city, that the sale of liquor, minor evils, which he supposed, he was without giving the denials of the freedom of the city. He read the following item from the News:

A meeting of the Scandinavian church of Christ, corner Twentieth avenue west, where all the Scandinavian ministers of the west will speak. Rev. J. Johnson, pastor of the church, will deliver the address. The assembly of the Scandinavian vote of the city.

The French Voters are Loyal. To the Editor of The Herald.

The News came out yesterday with a correspondence signed "A Frenchman," in which it is said that there was a very large meeting of the French element at the Svea hall last Thursday. Now this is a formal denial to the assertions made in Friday's Tribune, stating that there was a large meeting and that all the French citizens were loyal republicans; and also it shows that the report made in the Tribune about those French meetings is a falsehood from the beginning to the end. When the Tribune takes the liberty to attack a man such as Dr. Ladouceur, a man who has been mayor of the city of Sorel during seven years, a man who has been the representative of the country of Quebec, to the parliament during seventeen years, it is enough to convince the public that the Tribune is wrong in making such a statement. Yes, the French citizens are all loyal. One of them will be loyal to Davis, twenty-five to Long, and five hundred loyal to d'Auremont tomorrow.

Attention. Voters of the Fifth ward. If you wish to vote for the furniture dealer nominee of the peoples party in the Fifth ward, don't forget that C. O. NELSON is the man, as there is another Nelson, the nominee of the republican party in the field.

A very flimsy reason has been given to the voters of the First ward for voting against Matt Carroll for alderman. He is, they say, so interested in his private business as to be unable to give the necessary time to city affairs if elected. As a matter of fact, Mr. Carroll while a successful business man, would have more time than usual with business men, to devote to city matters. He is a lumberman and his time is actively employed in this only about four months in the year, and he has then Mr. Fletcher as his foreman so that at this season as well as others he could give all the time required to the matters incidental to an official position. It will take a reason more weighty than this to destroy the hold he has upon the voters of the ward.

Alex. S. Wilson. Voters of the Third ward, irrespective of party, should vote for Alexander S. Wilson for alderman. He is a young man of liberal views, a business man, and deeply interested in the management of public affairs of the Third ward. Vote for him.

FROM WASHINGTON

Resolutions of the Duluth Board and Chamber of Commerce Presented to Congress Today.

The Nebraska Gubernatorial Case Decided by the Supreme Court; Boyd Takes the Plumm.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—[Special to The Herald.]—In the senate today Senators Washburn and Ames presented the resolution of the Duluth board of trade requesting congress to defeat any bill for suppression of dealing in any form of farm products; also resolutions of the Duluth chamber of commerce favoring reduction of letter postage to one cent per ounce; favoring bill to repeal section 24 of the timber culture law and requesting all Minnesota representatives in congress to favor its passage; requesting them to support river and harbor improvements suggested at the late river improvement convention held at Kansas city.

The bill referring to the court of claims the question of the fraudulent character of the award made against Mexico in the La Abra case passed the senate by a vote of 43 yeas to 5 nays.

In Favor of Boyd. The supreme court today decided the Boyd-Thayer gubernatorial case in favor of Boyd; also the lottery case, upholding the law prohibiting the circulation through the mails of papers containing lottery advertisements.

REPLY TO CHILE. Secretary Blaine Formally Responds to Chile's Recent Apology.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—The following is the reply sent by Secretary Blaine to the Chilean government note of apology of the 25th inst.

"EGAN, minister, Santiago: I am directed by the president to acknowledge the receipt of Senor Pereira's dispatch of the 25th inst. It has been communicated to congress and has given great pleasure to the people of the United States and the executive department, as it restores the correspondence between the two republics to a basis of cordiality and makes, as he believes, full and honorable adjustment of all unsettled matters, easily attainable.

The President congratulates the Chilean government upon the frank and ample withdrawal of the Matia circular, and upon the spirit of justice displayed by the Minister Egan. You will assure the Chilean government that the matter will be glad to meet in the most generous spirit these friendly overtures.

"Believing that the subject of apportionment for the assault upon the seaman of the Baltimore is now capable of adjustment between the two governments by the usual diplomatic methods, the president postpones, for the present, any discussion of the suggestions made by Senor Pereira, as to the use of other methods; not doubting that the sense of justice of Chile will enable the two governments to speedily and honorably make a full end of the whole matter."

SETTLE FOR $20,000. The Northern Pacific Settles All Claims of the Andrews Opera Co.

ST. PAUL, Feb. 1.—The Northern Pacific has settled with all the members of the Andrews Opera company who were injured at Brainerd recently, and with the money thus secured the company expects to reorganize and take the road within three weeks. The amount paid by the railroad company will reach $20,000. Florence Joy is in a critical condition and it is thought that she cannot recover.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE AT WOODSTOCK. WOODSTOCK, Ill., Feb. 1.—Fire last night destroyed the Waverly house, a saloon, two livery stables, two stores, a boarding house and a billiard hall. Loss about $50,000; partially insured.

To Third Ward Voters. A great many of the residents of the Third ward expressed the wish that I should represent them in the council, and at their request I am now a candidate. At such a time one must be prepared to hear all sorts of stories circulated, but for the only argument against me that has appeared in print is in Sunday's Tribune and this is likely to act as a boomerang on those who caused its insertion.

Among the stories now being industriously circulated is one that if I go into the council I go there to represent the interests in other parts of the city, and that it will be my endeavor to have Park Point connected with Bay Front division or some part of the city other than Minnesota Point. This is not so. I merely want to say now to the electors in the Third ward that all my own property and nineteen-twentieths of the property I represent is east of Lake Avenue. My own interests and the interests of those of every property owner and resident of the Third ward. What will benefit them will benefit me also.

All the money we put into buildings this year will be spent in the Third ward. ALEXANDER S. WILSON.

A. H. Willis, of Boston, who was somewhat shaken up in the Northwestern wreck of Jan. 19 and has since been pleasantly hibernating at the Spalding for repairs, while the hours away with municipal campaign literature, left this afternoon for St. Paul on his beanward journey. Mr. Willis was rocked in the cradle of liberty, and having saved some of the rocks invested there here, which calls him semi-anxious hitherward. He is a cultured gentleman of a florid disposition.

Bill Bassett who a little while ago was hickering on the present administration is now spending money for it among the boys. Saturday he was in a saloon with a roll of money and, plunking down a bill which he said was Davis money, invited the crowd to drink. He had no trouble in finding a dozen or more who drank the health of the administration. This is no worse than has been done for some other candidates in times past, and it is no better. Billy has evidently been promised a job.

A COMMON CONSUME

In Waiting to Payroll Davis and Long When the Votes are Counted Tomorrow.

The Republicans Follow With a Shout of "Long and Left." Today's Political Gossip.

It has been an appropriate day for the Long party and its nominees. All day the snow flakes have been dropping upon his political grave and covering it deeper and deeper. There will be a effort made tonight by all the means known to political bosses to materialize the ghost of Charley's departed hopes but they will be useless and after tomorrow Mr. Long will rejoice that he did not resign his position as alderman and incidentally a few of the snow drops fell upon Mr. Davis. The victory is Mr. d'Auremont's. He will win hands down. Since Saturday morning there has been some little change, but not much. Mr. Long has gained some little and Davis has lost some ground. It has just come to light that Mr. Davis has been indulging in some peculiar campaign methods. He has been carrying out Henry Haskins' idea though on a little more elaborate scale. For some time past it has been noticed that the number of peddlers has increased without any corresponding increase in the number of licenses issued. The peddlers all belong to one class of people and their vote it is said the mayor will receive almost solid. He has in a word been trading the rights of his official position for political influence. Any one of these people desiring to become a peddler did not need to pay the necessary fees for securing a license. He has only to apply to his "honorable" and secure an indefinite permit which was all that was required. It cannot be told how many of these have been issued, but there have been a great many, and without doing anything out of the direct line of his official duty, beyond buying votes with his official power, the mayor has added materially to the number of ballots which will appear to his credit tomorrow night. But his fight is useless. He may come close to success; he cannot reach it. Apparently now there is nothing which can defeat d'Auremont. The Davis regime is nearly over. The Long campaign has been a hard fought one. Deserted by his friends he has been alone in leading a "forlorn hope." He has made a better struggle than was expected of him. He has never had the slightest chance of election. Today his prospects are slighter than ever before. Tonight he will close his campaign at the Temple opera with a "grand rally," which will be the funeral of his ambition. The straits which he is in will be best understood by the fact that against the advice of his friends, he intends to bring out a political bomberang of the most dangerous type. He realizes that his defeat has been accomplished by d'Auremont rather than by Davis. His object now is not so much success as it is revenge. Anything to defeat d'Auremont will be his idea for he is in common with the rest of the party recognizes that it is now d'Auremont against the field, and they prefer that Davis should be elected rather than he. Accepting this view of the situation they will adopt the dangerous course of going into personal mud-slinging. It is said on good authority that the personal slander of the worst sort is to be uttered against Mr. d'Auremont when it will be so late that time will not be allowed him to show how false it is. There is comfort in the fact, however, that no one will believe it to be anything other than a malicious campaign lie, adopted as the last resort of a defeated candidate. The Herald was at pains this morning to interview as many prominent republicans as could be seen. All admitted that they had heard that some political lie was to be uttered at tonight's meeting. There was not one of them either who did not deprecate the proposed action, not only an unworthy step but as a dangerous expedient which would aid rather than injure the gentlemen against whom it was aimed. There was not one of them either who would express the opinion that Long had any chance of success. Some claimed for him a larger vote than is given him in general opinion. Not one would say that he had any prospect of election.

A colored republican club, called the Lincoln club has been organized. The officers are: Mr. Napoleon White, president; William Blackstone, vice president; Thomas M. Grant, secretary; J. H. Beverly, treasurer; executive committee, B. A. Lewis, chairman; J. Arthur Banks, Richmond, Stokes, Thomas Sydney, Wallace Dorsey. This evening there will be political meetings without end. At Park Point, in the west end, at the council chamber, and at the opera house the various parties will shout for their various candidates. It will be the close of a municipal campaign which on all sides has been hotly and well contested.

Mr. Editor, Two Questions for you. No. 1. Did not Mr. Hugo while President of the council strongly and persistently advocate the purchase by the city of the Hartman electric plant? And was not he at the time an officer or employee of that company? And had not he, or some near relative of his stock in the company.
No. 2. Was not Mr. Hugo an equally persistent advocate of the purchase of the Gas and water works after Engineer Keatings report had clearly shown the nature of that stock? And did he not work at the polls in its favor until the very last moment of the day it was buried so deep by the voters?
I want to know the facts.

CITIZEN.
It is a little unfair to ask these questions when it is too late for Mr. Hugo to reply through the same medium, but being urged as very important questions The Herald gives them space with this modification. So far as the first question is concerned the editor of The Herald was not in Duluth at the time the electric light matter was most agitated and presumes the people who were here fully understand the matter. As to the second, we believe Mr. Hugo favored the purchase of the water plant as did many others. He may have believed that though the price was high it was the least the city could ever get the plant for, and that on the whole the purchase would prove more satisfactory than to duplicate the plant at a cheaper price. Many still hold to this opinion.

At a meeting of Duluth Association of Stationary Engineers held Saturday, Jan. 30, the following resolution was adopted:
Resolved, That in appointing janitors or engineers for the public schools, the Duluth board of education do not consider sufficiently the importance of having thoroughly competent men in charge of their steam heating plants, nor do they pay sufficient wages to induce competent men to remain in their employ as engineers.
We think the lesson taught by the recent Chicago boiler explosion of sufficient import to this board who have the lives of hundreds of children, and many thousands of dollars worth of property under the care of poorly paid employees.

Mayor's Proclamation.
MAYOR'S OFFICE, City of Duluth.
Whereas, Tuesday the second day of February, 1892, has been appointed by law as the annual municipal election day within the city of Duluth, and
Whereas, The laws of the state require that no spirituous, malt or intoxicating liquors shall be sold or given away on said day between the hours of 5 o'clock a. m. and 8 o'clock p. m.; and that all saloons, stores or bar-rooms where such liquors are usually sold or dispensed shall be closed on said day between said hours.
Now Therefore, I, M. J. Davis, mayor of the city of Duluth, do hereby command that such provisions of law be strictly enforced within the limits of the city of Duluth during said hours of said day. And I command that all sheriffs, deputy sheriffs, constables, policemen, magistrates and other officers whose duty it is to aid in preserving order, see that the provisions of this law are strictly enforced.
In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand this day of January, 1892.
M. J. DAVIS,
Mayor, city of Duluth.

The Weather.
U. S. WEATHER BUREAU, DULUTH, MINN., Feb.
2.—The storm which passed over this section yesterday is now central over Lake Michigan and has affected nearly the whole country in its passage.
Precipitation has been general in the form of snow on the northern and rain on the eastern and southern front of the storm. Some of the heaviest falls reported are St. Louis, 4 in.; Port Huron, 4; Marquette, 3; Battleford, 3; and Cincinnati, 2.

A cold wave of slight extent is moving down from the Northwest with medium temperatures, the lowest of which is zero at Calgary.
The highest temperature here yesterday was 32 below zero. The wind was from the west-northwest, with a light to moderate breeze.
The barometer was 30.1 in the form of snow and small hail.

Forecast. Feb. 2.—Local forecast for Duluth and vicinity for twenty-four hours ending at 8 a.
m. Feb. 3: Fair, colder; gently windy.

Washington, Feb. 2.—For Wisconsin: Clearing, colder; northwesterly winds. For Minnesota: Slightly warmer; northwesterly winds; fair weather. For Dakota: Continued cold; fair weather.

AS WE GO TO PRESS.
At 1 p. m., as these pages go to press, reports from all parts of the city indicate the certain election of d'Autremont for mayor and Powell for municipal judge. In the Fifth and Sixth wards d'Autremont is receiving a surprisingly large vote from all nationalities while he is running like a whirlwind in almost every precinct. His campaign managers feel that he is surely a winner.

JUST A WORD.
During the present campaign, and much against their wishes, gentlemen financially interested in The Herald have been drawn into the conflict by their motives being called in question and made an issue in the contest. As honorable men it was incumbent upon them to refute the false and malicious charges, and this they did in a way that put the brand of shame on their accusers. Every accusation has been retracted, and the professed high morality that fattered the attack has been shown up in its false and sickly colors. The Herald stands today as, under its present management, it has ever stood, the fearless advocate of what in its judgment seems the best interests of Duluth. It is handicapped by no considerable interests and lends itself to no personal ends. In the present contest it has supported d'Autremont because it believed that, of all candidates in the field, he was best fitted for the place and would give us a better administration with a more economical government than we have today. If the result shows that he is elected The Herald will expect no favors and will give none.
This paper will ever remain free to criticize the government of Duluth without respect to parties or persons.
And should the result go against us, which, however, does not now seem probable, The Herald will be as free in the future as it has been in the past to stay up the hands of any man who, in his official capacity, undertakes to maintain the dignity and good order of Duluth.
The Herald is a newspaper—a Duluth newspaper—and will never stoop to the calling of a time server or worshiper of false gods. We are satisfied with the campaign and can abide the result.

GOOD GOVERNMENT.
The Herald in this campaign has made a gallant fight for good government, and whether or not the battle of the ballots now in progress shall declare our cause triumphant, we shall not pause in pressing the principles we have espoused. Municipal government comes closer than any other to the hearts and pockets of the people, and it is not expedient to our highest welfare that it should be made a football for politicians or run in the interests of any class.
The closer a government keeps to the average sentiment of the people the more fairly representative and permanently successful it will be. When it falls below that average it drifts into licentiousness, and when it pretends to a higher level it must live on hypocrisy. If the law were enforced to the letter there would be no houses of prostitution in Duluth, and yet everyone realizes that it is impossible to crush out such vice as it is to uproot the human passions. It can, however, be made an outlaw and driven from the sight and pathway of the public. There is no justification for the luxury which now exists in this respect and we protest against such vice being given the freedom of the city.
While some ministers are alive to public affairs, and nearly all may be relied on as guides in questions of abstract right, too many of them who presume to instruct the public in municipal affairs, and have undertaken to do so in this campaign, know almost as much about what is going on in Duluth as some good old grandmas who stay at home and knit. We don't believe any ministers in Duluth can afford to espouse the cause of assignation in the heart of the city, and if they can The Herald cannot afford to assist them in the enterprise.
With a police force and court that cost our people a hundred thousand a year it would seem as if these things ought not to be, and if The Herald must stand alone in the contest it will not hesitate to do so. Prostitution should be driven from our public streets.

CHEAP MONEY.

Duluth concerns have within the past week been offered short time loans direct from Eastern banks, without commissions, at 4 1/2 to 5 per cent.

Three months ago The Herald predicted that by Feb. 1, the financial market would be easy and that Duluth people could get at a very low rate all the money they needed for legitimate investment. The forecast of events has come true, and never before has Duluth had such an immediate future as we behold today.

With a new iron region unfolding its marvelous riches to our people, with new railroads pushing into vast realms of natural wealth, with cheap ores in sight and new factories coming, with solid industries and a wonderful commerce already established, with the best foundation between the oceans on which to build, and now with cheap money seeking employment, the present season in Duluth and the country round about us promises to outstrip all predecessors in the race of progress. We have understood the ordinal and are victors at the goal. The future is ours.
Let us use it, and that right away.

THE CLOSING SCENE.
The Long meeting at the Temple last night was fairly well attended though the galleries were but partly filled. The speakers did very well, considering all the surrounding circumstances, but there was nothing that could be called enthusiasm for the head of the ticket. Many democrats were present and were quickest to see and applaud every good point, the republicans seeming a little reluctant about putting themselves on record in that way when in their heart of hearts they felt they ought to vote for the other fellow on the morrow.

Mr. Long's address did not come up to the standard of his graduating exercise from the same platform last summer when you could have lighted a cigarette with the fire of his eloquence, but considering the changed conditions it was very good. The only attack he made was upon some one whose name he did not give, because the unknown gentleman wrote him a letter inquiring if he could "conscientiously" do so and so.

The point seemed to be that the word we quote was superfluous, which we think a fair criticism of the letter.
Judges Morris, Gearhart and West, and the Big Medicine Man of the tribe, Dr. Barrett, made eloquent appeals which will be determined in the higher court of the people today, and C. A.
Towse added a peroration to give character and dignity to the entertainment.
Referring to a criticism of The Herald on one of his former addresses he corrected the impression that Charley Long freed the slaves. Justice having at last been done to the memory of the sainted and immortal Lincoln despite the claims of Salmon P. Chase and Charles Alexander Long, The Herald hereby embarks the corrected history and with the conquests of peace remains content.

THE BATTLE TODAY.
The fine weather and the efforts being put forth on all sides to get voters to the polls, insures a very full vote today.
With a total registration of 6,679, it would seem that fully 5,500 ballots ought to be put in the boxes, but as this registration includes the 1,400 who voted at the water plant election last fall, some of whom have since taken to the woods, it is not possible that a much larger total can be secured.

Crowds have hung around the several voting places all day and much interest is manifested in the outcome. The remarks alleged to have been made by Mr. d'Autremont at the meeting in Sven hall Sunday afternoon, which have been distorted and misrepresented by the opposition, are being vigorously used against him by good people who would not ordinarily circulate a lie, and the Davis forces are going to the polls in dray loads, but still the d'Autremont managers are confident of victory, and the most likely outcome is his triumphant election. It is difficult to predict what strength Long will develop, as no one can tell the exact degree of sincerity on the part of his supposed backers. His election, however, is one of the things not dreamed of nor desired. His claims justify entitle him to the third place in the race, and his most ardent supporters will be surprised if he doesn't get his deserts.

BOYD THE WINNER.
There is such a strong love of justice among all classes of American people that the final victory of James E. Boyd, in his legal contest for the governorship of Nebraska, will be hailed with universal approval. He received the largest number of votes of any candidate before the people, and the effort to defeat him was on the mere question of his citizenship. As he lived in Nebraska when it was a territory, and congress by the act admitting Nebraska into the Union conferred citizenship upon all residents of the territory, the United States supreme court holds that Boyd is eligible to the governorship, thus reversing the court below. The decision is not a partisan one, as Justice Field, a democrat, dissented on the ground that the jurisdiction of the case rested with the state, and whether right or wrong the federal court had not power to review it. This is the only democratic feature of the action of the highest tribunal.

You can't keep a good newspaper down. Skill and conspicuous merit will tell. Since the day The Herald appeared in its new form with unequalled facilities for obtaining news, its circulation has increased steadily day by day and week by week, and still the boom continues. Both in the city and suburbs The Herald reaches almost every home.
The people know a good thing when they see it and they have discovered that they can get more news of the day in The Herald than in any other Duluth paper, and so they want it and subscribe for it, and the circulation goes up a notch every sunset. This makes it the best advertising medium for the cliff dwellers and The Herald climbs to the front.

THE DEATH OF SPURGEON.
The highest eulogium that can be paid to the civilization of the English speaking race is that it possesses men like Spurgeon, the teacher, preacher and home-factor, in whose death the world feels loneliness. This, too, is the only eulogy we need pronounce upon the illustrious dead. His life was its own eulogy—he was a living benediction.

LIGHTNING RAILWAYS.
General Manager Inlee of the Wisconsin Central is quoted in Chicago papers as saying that he believes his road will be running trains by electricity before the Columbian exposition is over.
Wonderful progress is being made in the adaptation of electric power to railway purposes, and almost any achievement may be received without surprise.

McCLURE ON EDITORS.
The Philadelphia Times Man Talks of His Profession.
(Layman's Magazine.)

The editor-in-chief of a great daily newspaper differs little from the editor-in-chief of the village journal except in degree of responsibility and vexation.
The main difference that I see between the editor-in-chief of a great daily and the editor-in-chief of the old time weekly is in the fact that he is not an editor in the sense of the word as it is not an editorial associates whose writing he cannot revise, for the vapors of scores of reporters whom he seldom sees and whose articles he has rarely has knowledge of until they appear in his columns, and for hundreds of correspondents who are flashing their news and speculations over the wires from all parts of the earth, to be hurriedly jammed into a newspaper and printed without opportunity of verifying any.
For all these things the editor-in-chief is responsible in every way—legally responsible for libels which he never dreamed of and held morally responsible for utterances that often grate as harshly upon his views as upon the views of his readers.

Libel suits have become one of the important incidents in the life of every editor-in-chief of sufficient importance to attract public attention or to make a newspaper read by the public, and but for the generous sense of justice that the law extends to the editor-in-chief by protecting him from the punishment of others' wrongs as far as it can be done with public safety, there is not an editor-in-chief of a daily newspaper in Pennsylvania who would not be fined or imprisoned every year for the life of the newspaper ceased to be newspaper.
Thus the chief distinction of the editor-in-chief in these days is, first of all, he is responsible for the general tone and expression of his newspaper columns, and next he is responsible for the countless utterances of others which he cannot dictate or revise. If he is a sensitive man he is likely to lose his appetite every day over the first meal he takes after reading his own newspaper; and if he is not a sensitive man he is likely to land himself in jail by his neglect of caution about the things which are written and published in his name.

But with all its unpleasant embarrassments, I regard it as the most interesting position a man can attain under our free institutions. The editor-in-chief of a widely-read and respected daily newspaper holds the highest public trust under our government of the people. It is the most responsible office in the country. Parties rise and fall; Presidents come and go; cabinets gather and scatter; senators and representatives fill their brief missions and pass away, but the daily newspaper continues through all the swift changes in politics and society, ever teaching and ever enlightening mankind if faithful to its sacred duties, and its influence, though often unperceived and apparently unfelt, is as constant as the genial rays of the sun that bursts the seed and ripens the harvest.

As to Alderman Hugo.
To the Editor of The Herald:
Replying to the insinuation and question of "Citizen," in last evening's Herald, I beg to state that neither T. W.
Hugo or any of his relatives hold or have ever held any stock of either the Hartman Electric company or the Duluth Electric company. As my knowledge, I have been intimately connected with both companies since their inception.
Mr. Hugo's interest has been simply that of manager of the operating department, for which he received a salary. I can further state that I have never known McLugo to do a dishonest act nor consistent with the honor of a gentleman, and a public officer. A. W. HARTMAN.
President Hartman Electric company.

Over and Over.
[Julia C. Dorr in Harper's Young People.] "Just the same thing over and over," But that is the way of the world, my dear; Over and over, over and over, Old things repeated from year to year!

Hear what the sun saith: "Patience still,
And every morning the earth is new,
And over the clouds in the golden west Have a fresh glory shining through."

Hear what the grass saith: "Till the hills And through the orchard I creep and creep, Over the meadows, and where the rills Laugh in the shadows cool and deep."

"Every spring it is just the same!
And because it is just the same,
The oriole's flash of vivid flame In the pink-white bloom of the apple tree."

Hear what dear Love saith: "Ah, I hear The same old story over and over; Mother and maiden year by year Waiver it still to child and lover!"

"But sweeter it grows from age to age,
The same begotten son long ago,
When first I came to be a bride, And walked with God in the even glow."

THEY LOVE EGAN.

The Democratic Resolution Requesting Egan's Recall Received With Surprise in Chile.

Where the Recent Feeling of Hatred for Patrick has Been Smothered in Brotherly Love.

Mr. Egan Courts a Full and Searching Investigation: Disastrous Incendiary Fires at Santiago.

VALPARAISO, Feb. 3.—The resolution introduced in the house of representatives at Washington requesting President Harrison to recall Minister Egan was read with interest in this city and Santiago. Much surprise was expressed that such a resolution should be introduced. The public feeling toward Mr. Egan in this country has undergone a complete change and his attitude seems now to be better understood.

Minister Egan was asked yesterday what he thought of the resolution and replied as follows: "I count a full investigation of all my acts, I have no fear that anything detrimental to my reputation would be discovered. My actions throughout these difficulties have been approved by Secretary Blaine and the administration at Washington."

A crowd of young men on Monday night sacked the office of La Republica, a newspaper which has vigorously opposed the present regime. The police were not present to afford any protection.

During the past week there have been many large fires in Santiago from which losses estimated at $2,000,000 have resulted. Insurance agents believe they were started by incendiaries.

THE TARIFF UNPOPULAR.

The New French Tariff Proves Intolerable to Import Trade.

PARIS, Feb. 3.—The new tariff has caused a general disorganization of business connected with the import trade. The authorities are overwhelmed with protests from people who claim that their goods ought to have been admitted under the old rate. In some cases these claims depend upon the question of whether the arrival of a vessel could be entered before it was actually in port. At the land frontiers also there has been great trouble arising from the customs tariff, and this has caused an advance in prices. There is a disposition on the part of many traders to advance prices on goods not affected by the tariff, partly out of a desire to make money and partly to make the tariff unpopular. This course is strongly condemned by public opinion and an effort may be made to reach the offenders by legislation.

A MAGIC CITY.

Creede, Cal., Still the Scene of Intense Gold Excitement.

DENVER, Col., Feb. 3.—The excitement at Creede, Cal., the new mining camp on the Rio Grande railroad, is intense. People are flocking in from all parts of the country and a large city of rough board houses has sprung up in a short time. David H. Moffatt yesterday offered $200,000 for an English company to bond the Holy Mary mine at Creede, but he refused to do so.

Since the first prospect hole was started at Creede, about 200 shafts have been sunk, and $5,000,000 worth of ore taken from the mines there, although everything is new and undeveloped. Yesterday L. Z. Dickson, Henry R. Wolcott and E. O. Wolcott, of Denver, a Mr. Ward, of New York, and Jake Saunders purchased a two-thirds interest in the last Chaley mine at Creede for $100,000. This mine is shipping 60 tons of ore a day, which averages $100 per ton.

THE BOILER BLEW UP.

An Alton Locomotive Explodes, Hurting Two Souls Into Eternity.

JOLIET, Ill., Feb. 3.—A horrible accident occurred at Joliet, one mile south of this city, at 10:30 last evening. The boiler of engine No. 47 on the Chicago & Alton road pulling a heavy freight south, with a pusher from this city helping over the hill, blew up just as the engine reached the top of the hill. The boiler exploded throwing the engine and three cars off the track.

The dead are Brandon Thomas and C. F. Hastings. The only survivor was Dubois Williams, engineer. Owing to the feeble condition of the survivors, the dead were not removed until this morning. The boiler was found to be in good condition and it was concluded that the cause of the explosion was the engine and three cars off the track.

THREE LIVES LOST.

By the Igniting of Gas in a Newark, N. J., Factory.

NEWARK, N. J., Feb. 3.—A terrific explosion took place in J. Rummel & Co.'s hat factory early last evening. The plumbers and an apprentice were at work repairing an alcohol condenser and it is supposed the plumbers' torch ignited the gas from some leak. The explosion resulted in the immediate spread of flames and the 150 employees escaped by jumping from the windows.

The dead are Oscar Leusch, plumber, Alfred Anderson, plumbers' helper, 10 years old; Dan Okeefe, of Newark, N. Y., helper, 20 years old. The loss is about $20,000.

Attacking the McKinley Bill.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—A conference of the democratic members of the committee on ways and means was held yesterday at which several measures attacking the provisions of the McKinley bill were discussed. The subjects referred to were binding twine, cotton ties, salt, lumber, wool and tin plate. The bills will be prepared as rapidly as possible, and after being submitted to the full committee will be reported to the house at the first opportunity.

Warlike in Tone.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 3.—The Moscow Gazette publishes an article, warlike in tone, in which it says the German colonists in Russia are the advance guard of a German army.

CRUSHED INTO SCRAP IRON.

A Baltimore & Ohio Train Ditched With Disastrous Results.

TIPPIN, Ohio, Feb. 3.—A disastrous wreck occurred on the Baltimore & Ohio, a few rods west of North Baltimore depot, at 2 o'clock this morning. The limited express train of the road, carrying no passengers, was derailed by a broken switch rod while running at the rate of 35 miles an hour. The locomotive and tender were crushed into scrap iron, the cars telescoped and valuable express matter was strewn promiscuously around.

The body of Engineer James Manuel, of Garret, Ind., was jammed three feet into the earth beneath the firebox. His neck was nearly severed. Fireman Hampton was wedged in by the tender and fatally injured. Express messengers W. D. Callahan and L. Gray of Chicago, were in the forward car and miraculously escaped with a few bruises. Conductor Lewis and a brakeman were the rest of the crew and were imprisoned in a car for a time, but were uninjured.

A part of the express matter included $8000 worth of silver bullion consigned to the Phoenix National bank. The switch bar had held together by a mere thread and was evidently broken by a preceding train. The dead and injured were taken to the hospital.

The Tower Election.

TOWER, Feb. 3.—The election held here yesterday resulted as follows: For mayor, James Tippet, people's, 322; no opposition. City treasurer, J. B. Noble, people's, 207; Chas. McNamara, ind., 138. City recorder, Michael F. Marion, people's, 300. Municipal judge, Seth Scott, people's, 248. L. Grotum, ind., 121. Special judge, T. S. Williams, people's, 258. Aldermen: Jas. A. Grierson, people's, 221; Julian Howard, people's, 252; Michael O'Keefe, people's, 239; Ole Corser, ind., 123. City assessor: W. H. Campaign, people's, 146; John J. Murrik, people's, 129.

Rich Silver Strike.

DENVER, Feb. 3.—One of the most remarkable strikes of rich ore ever found has been made in the famous Mollie Gibson silver mine at Aspen. A body of ore has just been discovered which is worth fully $100,000 a ton. The drift ore continued and penetrated a 7-foot body of ore, averaging over 200 ounces to the ton. From the 2-foot body of 26,000 ounces of ore huge pieces weighing 700 pounds were hoisted, which were almost pure metal.

The Elder Still Floats.

LONDON, Feb. 3.—The North German Lloyd steamship Elder is still ashore on the rocks of Aberfield, Isle of Wight. The vessel is in no better condition than when she ran aground, and the question of whether the arrival of a vessel could be entered before it was actually in port. At the land frontiers also there has been great trouble arising from the customs tariff, and this has caused an advance in prices. There is a disposition on the part of many traders to advance prices on goods not affected by the tariff, partly out of a desire to make money and partly to make the tariff unpopular. This course is strongly condemned by public opinion and an effort may be made to reach the offenders by legislation.

A Clever Invention.

NEWPORT, R. I., Feb. 3.—A submarine mine for coast defense, the invention of Lieut. Marshall of the United States navy, was tested here yesterday. In shape the mine is more like a coffin than a cask, and is made of sheet iron. Its total weight is 850 pounds. It contains a charge of gun cotton equivalent to 100 pounds of dry gun cotton. The mine is so constructed that it may be fired from shore or by contact at will. The test yesterday was in every way a most perfect success.

Battle With Moonshiners.

ANNISTON, Ala., Feb. 3.—Several thousand gallons of whiskey and beer and six illicit stills were destroyed in Cleburne county last Monday by Deputies Briggs and Colquitt. The officers had a battle with the moonshiners and a dozen shots were exchanged before the "shiners" surrendered. Their names are Lewis Danby, William Ewing and Tom Jones.

Margaret Mather's Mother Dead.

DETROIT, Feb. 3.—Mrs. Ann Finlayson, mother of Margaret Mather, the actress, died here last evening. She was taken sick at a grocery store, dying before she got home. Her maiden name was Mather and she was born in England 73 years ago, having lived here for 12 years. She lived in poor circumstances and one would never imagine her the mother of the talented woman bearing her name.

Stole the Mail Pouches.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—Seven pouches of mail matter, mostly letters, were stolen from two mail cars last night while on the ferry boat from New York to Hoboken. The mail was mostly for New York state points. Apparently the doors of the vans had been opened by skeleton boys, but there is as yet no clue to the mystery.

Murdered the Station Agent.

PINE BLUFF, Ark., Feb. 3.—The body of W. A. McKenney, station agent at Wabbeska, on the St. Louis Southwestern road, was found lying on the floor of the train yesterday morning by the crew of a train that stopped for orders. The agent had been shot through the heart by unknown parties, who afterwards robbed the office. There is no clue.

Will Test the Law.

MADISON, Wis., Feb. 3.—The supreme court of Wisconsin yesterday formally granted leave to have suit brought to test the constitutionality of the apportionment law passed at the late session of the democratic legislature. Arguments will be heard next Tuesday.

Blaine and Reciprocity.

OTTAWA, Feb. 3.—Sir John Thompson and Finance Minister Foster leave next week for Washington to renew the discussion with Secretary Blaine and arrange a basis for negotiations looking to reciprocity between the United States and Canada.

An Historic Preacher Dead.

BELFAST, Feb. 3.—Rev. Hugh Hanna, a presbyterian minister, who through his open air preaching caused the religious riots in this city in 1857, died today.

DAY IN CONGRESS.

Committee on Agriculture Hear Arguments on Hatch's Bill Defining Options and Futures.

A Kansas Farmer Presents His Views and Severely Criticizes the System of That Defining.

Senator Kyle, of South Dakota, Delivers a Forceful Speech for a National Marriage Law.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—The house committee on agriculture today heard arguments on the bill introduced by Mr. Hatch, of Missouri, defining options and futures and imposing special taxes thereon. C. Woods Davis, a farmer, representing the board of trade of Wichita, Kas., said that since 1870 the price in farm products had been low and the prices in wheat had continued to shrink. He said that the depression caused him to look into transportation rates and he had found them to be in favor of the American farmer. He thought the tariff enhanced the value of farm products, but he had found in the last 10 years a system of short selling of wheat, cotton and other products. The system of short selling had become a growing disturbing factor and he had been told by a Chicago banker that there was more money tied up in margin sales than could pay for moving the entire crops. He thought that there was too much pork barreled for speculation which got old and was as a consequence sold cheap and the only people who could eat it were dyspeptics and the negroes on the cotton plantations.

The wheat sold on the board of trade of New York in one year equaled the production of the world, and there were 28 boards of trade. The prices were not fixed in Liverpool, but were made in Chicago by three or four men. At this point he requested the clerk to read a telegram which he had received. It was as follows: "Partridge is bigger than the market and sold freely."

He said that man dominated the market. On Saturday last he sold 400,000 bushels of privileges, and no one has been able to fix the prices in Chicago. The market is in the hands of a few men showing that Partridge controlled the Chicago market. He thought it possible to put a stop to dealing in futures.

WORK OF THE SENATE.

Senator Kyle Argues in Favor of a National Marriage Law.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Mr. Sherman, chairman of the committee of foreign relations presented an invitation from the German government asking the participation of the United States in the international art exhibition to be held in Munich from June 1 to Oct. 1, 1892. Accompanying the invitation was a letter from the state department recommending an appropriation of $500,000 to enable the department of state to organize a commission to secure a creditable representation of American art at the exhibition. Secretary Blaine suggested that the prompt acceptance of the invitation would tend to insure a liberal response from Germany to send her great works of art to the Chicago exhibition. Referred to the committee on foreign relations.

Mr. Dolph reported adversely a number of Chinese immigration restriction bills and preliminary bills, and as a substitute therefor reported a bill going continuing all existing laws prohibiting and restricting Chinese immigration for the period of five years.

Mr. Kyle, of South Dakota, according to notice, called up his joint resolution proposing an amendment to the constitution of the United States making uniform laws in regard to marriage and divorce and read a prepared speech upon the subject.

Mr. Kyle said that although his own state had secured an unenviable reputation in regard to divorce, its laws in that respect were no more lax than those of other states. But he would admit that the provision authorizing a divorce after 12 days residence was productive of fraud and perjury and often made divorce a farce. A national law would remedy all this. Partridge married in one state would be married in every state, those divorced in one state would be divorced in every state, the sanctity of the family would be maintained and the legitimacy of children would be placed beyond question.

He asked that his resolution be referred to the judiciary committee, and it was so ordered. Mr. Vest called up the bill for a postoffice building, not to exceed $25,000 in every town where postal receipts exceeded $5000 per annum. He said the number of buildings would be about 800 and the total cost about $6,000,000. The bill would make a great saving in rentals.

A debate on the general policy regarding public buildings followed. The bill was still under discussion when the hour of 2 o'clock arrived, and the senate resumed the consideration of the Mander son public printing bill.

A Minnesotan Rewarded.

The attorney general has appointed George C. Robinson, of Massachusetts, special assistant attorney, to the prosecution of cases against the officers of the Maverick bank of Boston; also Robert G. Evans, of Minnesota, special assistant attorney, to the prosecution of suits against the Northern Pacific Railroad company.

In the House.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—The consideration of the report of the congressional committee on the pending amendment being one offered by Mr. Boatner, of Louisiana, striking out all that part of the rules giving permission to attach riders to appropriation bills when in the interest of retrenchment and expenditures.

In support of his position Mr. Boatner said he did not think the increased expenditures in every year, the increase in the departments, but to the large expenditures for pensions, public buildings and other national improvements.

Mr. Bowers, of California, said the people in the West wanted congress to get them back the money they had paid for public lands in excess of $1.25 per acre on the promise of building railroads. He would advise the democrats to give the country a good liberal slice of the public money. They could not get a democrat in the White House on a chariot of reform with five cent nickel pieces for wheels.

Hurrying Home to Ruth. WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Ex-President Cleveland passed through here on his way to New York from the South today without stopping.

DISMISSED IN DISGRACE.

Privy Councillor Hubbenet Peremptorily Dismissed by the Czar.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 3.—A. T. Hubbenet, privy councillor and minister of ways and communications, has been dismissed from his place in the cabinet by the peremptory dictum of the czar. It appears that Col. Wenderich, engaged under imperial direction in the inspection of Russian railways, found himself thwarted in his efforts to make a genuine inspection and that the adverse influences came direct from the ministry of ways.

Councillor of State Witte, director of the department of railways, showed a sincere desire to sustain Col. Wenderich but was himself obstructed by his superior, Minister Hubbenet, who was desirous of shielding corrupt and inefficient management of the railway lines. Witte sent his resignation to the czar. The latter had Witte summoned before him and asked him the ground for his resignation. Witte thereupon told how he had been hampered and the work of inspection obstructed. Two hours later came the order dismissing Hubbenet in disgrace. The radical action of the czar has caused dismay in corrupt official circles.

SPECULATION RUINED THEM.

Two Memphis High Flyers Disappear Into Space With $50,000.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Feb. 3.—Nothing has been learned of the whereabouts of Walter R. Jones and R. Jones, the cotton men who suddenly left the city yesterday. The nature of their transactions became known today when it was learned that they had defrauded foreign creditors to the amount of $100,000. The firm has been doing extensive business and dealing heavily in futures. Some months ago they became involved and only saved off an assignment by mortgaging all of their real estate. Creditors began to press them and as a last resort they made a large shipment of ordinary cotton to Bremen and drew for it as follows: "Partridge is bigger than the market and sold freely." With this money they went into short time futures, but lost heavily. It is thought they had $50,000 in cash when they left the city. New Orleans parties are caught for $10,000, and the Mechanics bank here held small amount of paper against them.

Mrs. Barnaby's Will.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Feb. 3.—The will of Mrs. Barnaby, for whose death Dr. Graves was convicted, which was made in Chester, Pa., and known as the Worrell will, was admitted to probate today. There was no contest, but the appointment of Dr. Graves as executor according to the terms of the will, was deferred until Feb. 23.

Wedded in Death.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Feb. 3.—Anthony Brown, of Pittstown, and Miss Harriet Rutledge, of Duryea, came here last night to get married, but arrived too late to obtain a license and went to a hotel. This morning the woman was found dead in bed and Brown died this afternoon. Both deaths were due to the accidental inhaling of illuminating gas.

Col. Withers Suicides.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 3.—Col. John Withers, cashier of the San Antonio National bank, committed suicide here at 10:30 this morning by shooting himself through the head. The tragedy took place in a private room just over the bank. Col. Withers is about 55 years of age. He was very wealthy. No cause has yet been learned for the deed.

Carpenters Order a Boycott.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 3.—At a meeting of the carpenters council last night a boycott was ordered on the public of the Plant Milling company of this city. This action is taken because of the result of the milling company to employ union carpenters on the erection of a new building. The company have been paying their workmen at the rate of 28 cents per hour, but the union scale prescribes a rule of 40 cents.

A New Social Organization for Young Men Which Will Be a Success.

The Duluth club was regularly organized last Monday evening at an enthusiastic meeting of young men held in the office of the Duluth Real Estate exchange. For a long time many of the progressive young men of the city have felt the need of suitable club rooms where unoccupied evenings may be spent with congenial friends. The removal of the Kitchi Gami club to the new quarters opened the way to the purchase of the annex to their present home on Second street which was promptly done by several of those interested in the scheme. As soon as this became known over 100 men signed a paper declaring their intention of becoming members of the new organization. A call for a meeting was issued and at this meeting a constitution was adopted and officers for the coming year elected.

The directors have purchased the "Annex" and it is now being moved across Second street to a lot near the Cheltenham. A high basement, entirely above ground, is to be placed under the building, to provide for the bowling alleys and to give room for Indian club swinging. The first floor will have a large reading room with open fire place, with billiardroom at the back. The second floor, which is reached by a staircase from the reading room, will have rooms for games, smoking, etc. The entire building will be heated by hot water.

The names of the officers chosen need only to be mentioned to show the strong hold this new club will have upon the young men of Duluth: President, Rev. W. M. Barker; vice-president, O. C. Hartman; secretary, W. G. Wrong; treasurer, C. D. Shepard. These officers will have charge of the club. The club has placed the limit of membership at 200, and from present appearances the limit will soon be reached.

The Weather.

U. S. WEATHER BUREAU, DULUTH, MINN., Feb.
3.—(Locally fair weather, prevailing this morning with neither very low or high temperatures.
A cold wave has been at center of the storm and the northwest and quite generally over the Gulf states.

Some temperatures are: Chicago 32, Buffalo 32, Chicago 32, Kansas City 32, Denver 32, Helena 25, Minneapolis 40, Port Arthur 14, Marquette 24, St. Paul 32, and Milwaukee 32.

32, the lowest last night 18°.

DULUTH, Feb. 3.—Local forecast for Duluth and vicinity for twenty-four hours ending at 8 a.
m. Feb. 4: Fair, slightly warmer, with light west to northwest wind.

B. H. BRONSON, Observer.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—The weather, generally fair, except clouds in the west, of snow on the lake shore, diminishing northerly winds.
For the Dakotas and Minnesota. Generally fair, variable winds; slightly warmer and probably fair Thursday.

THE RESULT AND ITS CAUSES.
The Herald has very little to say today regarding the election, further than to review, in a manner as modest as may be, the closing scene, and name a few of the many causes that led thereto.

It is not becoming to thoughtful men in a free country where government is of and for the whole people rather than a select and favored few, to wax boastful over political results. And it would be far from the duty or purpose of The Herald which has been a guide, philosopher and friend rather than a partisan advocate, to depart from its consistent and dignified course to indulge in any wild and woolly demonstrations.

The Herald took its position thoughtfully and honestly for d'Autremont in the full belief that such a course was in the interests of Duluth. The result, therefore, is very gratifying, and we may safely admit that much. During the progress of the campaign we made no idle boast, and every statement was sincere and honest. In these columns we estimated the total vote at $500, and d'Autremont's at $200. The result shows the total to be $343 and d'Autremont's vote $258, a little more favorable to our candidate than the estimates we made. These figures were based on reasonable grounds. In the fall of 1899, T. T. Hudson as candidate for the legislature, received in round figures 1800 votes in Duluth proper. A few of these votes were cast by republicans, but J. M. Martin, of West Duluth, received at the same time 1500 democratic votes in this city. The result proved the estimate to be correct. It seems seemed reasonable to believe that the growth of the city of d'Autremont would get 1800 straight democratic votes yesterday. With union labor nearly solid for him, and with some accessions from the republican ranks, we felt confident he would add 700 to the total vote reached 5500. This, we were fully satisfied, would elect him. The result proved that The Herald was not only fair in its estimate, but that it was remarkably correct.

As to Long, Davis and Mannheim, there was no sure grounds for an estimate, and with The Herald's figures for d'Autremont it was of little moment how the balance of the votes were divided.
The total vote of these three was 2876, or only 318 more than d'Autremont alone received, so that a change of 160 votes to d'Autremont would have given him a majority over all. Long and Mannheim were certain to get enough to overcome this, if our figures on d'Autremont were approximately correct, and we were confident of the correctness of the result. The Herald arrogates to itself no especial political wisdom, but in this case it felt sure it had a known and winning factor in its hand. It was right.

We gave Davis 300 plurality west of the point of rocks, and although the Sixth ward went stronger for him than we had calculated, the Fifth a little more than overcome it and he received a plurality in both of 271. It was thought the Sixth would be about even, and the 99 plurality for Davis was a mild surprise. The Second, the home of d'Autremont and Long was regarded as between the two leading candidates, and it went to Davis by 3 plurality. This was more than offset by the fact that the Fourth, the home of Davis and Mannheim, went for d'Autremont by a plurality of 318 and a majority of 84 over all.
In this ward Mannheim received 31 of his total vote of 62, while Long got 234. d'Autremont received 838, though his committee claimed only 750.

Powell and Winje, the democratic nominees for the regular and special municipal judgments, were endorsed by the people's party, and because of some republican indiscretions in the convention, Powell's election was assured from the start. His majority is 1076. Winje had nobody's blunders to help him, but won by 370, and it seems that both would have won, under circumstances, the most favorable to their opponents. The parties back of them had the most votes, and, as the candidates were worthy men, that settled it. Gearhart ran close to Davis, receiving a total of 107 votes more than twice as many as the head of his own ticket. Judge West was but little behind his running mate, receiving 187 votes, which is also more than double that received by Long. The boys can therefore congratulate themselves all around.

The Herald made no particular figure in the several wards further than to urge every voter to go to the polls and use his best judgment in voting for the best men. There were too many good men on the tickets for all to win, but it is pretty safe to say that no bad man was successful. This is glory enough for one day.

Among the causes which brought about the results here narrated, a few may be mentioned.

So far as the democrats are concerned, their chief victory was won in the town hall when they put up a strong ticket without a single weak man to drag another down.

And as to the republicans they met their Waterloo in the town hall when they nominated Long. It is fair to believe that the delegates, who nominated him stood by him yesterday, but the republicans as a party may well feel proud at the meagerness of his vote. The Herald was in earnest when it declared before the convention that he was not the man for mayor and that only humiliation could come from such a choice.
The statement was as true as it was sincere.

Then there were frictions in the republican convention that aroused the latent feelings of many voters and helped to swell the tide that engulfed their party nominees.

The people's party has not yet gained the confidence of the public so far as business sagacity and executive ability is concerned, and the most thoughtful voters were against it.

The present administration, which is not invulnerable, was held up as a model of excellence which nothing else could approach, and the whole campaign of that party was run on a false issue.

The newspaper champion of that party, assuming a purity that would be soiled by touch with the everyday world, began from the start, and before the nominations were made, a campaign of slander and falsehood which ended in the most humiliating retractions and the open acknowledgement that it had wilfully lied.

Then, too, several ministers over-reached in trying to form a new union of church and state, turning the houses of God into ward headquarters, so that many who reverent religion were nauseated and turned away.

The true condition of things in the city, and the inefficiency of the present government, was plainly and fairly presented in the columns of The Herald, and by an aggressive campaign the pre-tenders to high morality were put on the defensive, a position they would not discuss and could not maintain.

Besides, the democrats had a thorough organization in every precinct, and the city committee was composed of solid men who were careful in every detail, made no breaks nor boasts, and brought strength to their party, for they had the confidence of all.

The opposition parties were not so well organized, nor in either case was the campaign management in such earnest and consistent.

A most important factor, too, was the attitude of union labor, which because of the action of the other parties and the abuse it had received from them, was almost solid for The Herald's candidate. This was a power in itself, and a force that cannot be overlooked.

The tardy action of the republican candidate or committee in circulating a libelous dodger on the day of election, changed a considerable number of votes to the other parties, and justified The Herald's warning against rookeries that could not be contradicted.

The falsehoods repeatedly uttered by the News and other papers, in the wake down its influence and reacted in favor of d'Autremont. When we named it the nemesis we were quite in earnest.

There are other causes that could be mentioned, and possibly we may allude to them at some other time; not, however, in any spirit of adulation, but as a mere matter of current history and as a basis for future action. It was a democratic victory in the sense that the democrats put up candidates who commanded a support stronger than their party, and the lesson that all parties should learn from it is that good and able men must be put to the front. If The Herald in its feeble way has helped to teach this lesson it is content.

The happiest remark of election day was made by a man not very familiar with the English tongue who declared he voted for Mr. Dynamic. "Dute" did low up the hopes of some of the other fellows.

The Herald said at the opening of the campaign and repeats it now that the republican party will be in better shape for future contest with d'Autremont the winner than it would be with Davis, though as between Davis and Long The Herald never hesitated to pronounce for the present mayor.

There is only one reasonable explanation of Joe Mannheim's candidacy, which is that he calculated on a close contest in which he could sell out. He banked on a catholic vote, but it is creditable to our city that men of all nations and creeds went to the polls yesterday and voted as American citizens. We trust Joseph is eliminated from future political problems.

The Herald is a Duluth newspaper

THE DULUTH EVENING HERALD: WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 3, 1912.

They make no mistake in holding up morals and good government as standards to be attained to, but when they clearly a champion from the pulpit the cause of any man, they place their Otherwise they will lose their great influence for good and should look to campaign committees for their support. By their fruits we know them.

There's Mamma!

friends with an exhibit of lantern pictures, representing the best phases of French art in painting and sculpture.
Among the guests was a Mrs. G.—a rare type of female beauty, in her collect and sleekest costume, and her pretty little 5-year-old daughter, Effie, also deeply interested in the exhibitions as they were thrown upon the screen. Effie was quietly sitting in her beautiful mother's lap, uttering not a word, until Falconer's "Cupid" gave way to Pradier's undraped female figure facing the spectator.

"An'ty" a lovely daughter of Eve facing the spectator, the attitude of arranging her heavy tresses.

In an instant little Effie became alive and wildly clapping her hands in ecstasy, she loudly exclaimed: "Oh, look, look! There's mamma, there's mamma!" Mrs. G. upon the assembly was electrified, as every one had met and admired Mrs. G. before the light had been turned down; but as it was too dark to see what happened, she said to herself: "What an enfant terrible was affectionately hugged, rather than spanked, by the narrow so unexpectedly compromised."

A Fool's Advice.
(From Macdonald in Harper's Weekly.)

Let us look on the beauties of nature, nor onward to be happy by rote and by rule; Let us deem the earth filled, and declare the earth full.

If you please, with the moon on his arm round the planet.

Let us draw on the skies
Nor, straining our eyes,
Seek divisions and signs.

Let the day turn to night without counting its hours.

And seasons be known by the blossoms and flowers.

O, let us not endeavor to fashion the laws
Of motion and matter, nor seek the cause
Of form and color; it's useless to care
Why leaves have their green, why only in there;
We shall only persevere.

Let us live in this world unanxious, unperturb and willfully wait to be wise in the next.

pretty little 5-year-old daughter, Effie, also deeply interested in the exhibi-
beautiful mother's lap, uttering not a word, until Falconer's "Cupid" gave
facing the spectator.

arranging her heavy tresses.

and wildly clapping her hands in ecstasy, she loudly exclaimed: "Oh, look,
look! There's mamma, there's mamma!" Mrs. G. upon the assembly was electrified, as every one had met and admired
Mrs. G. before the light had been turned
hugged, rather than spanked, by the nar-

A Fool's Advice.
(From Macdonald in Harper's Weekly.)

Let us look on the beauties of nature, nor
onward to be happy by rote and by rule;
Let us deem the earth filled, and declare the earth full.

the planet.

Let us draw on the skies
Nor, straining our eyes,
Seek divisions and signs.

Let the day turn to night without counting its
hours.

flowers.

O, let us not endeavor to fashion the laws
Of motion and matter, nor seek the cause
Of form and color; it's useless to care
Why leaves have their green, why only in there;
We shall only persevere.

Let us live in this world unanxious, unper-
turb and willfully wait to be wise in the next.

Household Hints.
About a pound of wood soot to a gallon of boiling water makes a very fine fertilizer for plants.

To give a good oak color to a pine floor wash in a solution of one pound of
had the confidence of all.

nest and consistent.

attitude of union labor, which because
of the action of the other parties and
the abuse it had received from them,
was almost solid for The Herald's
candidate. This was a power in itself,
and a force that cannot be overlooked.

libelous dodger on the day of election,

A LIVING TELEPHONE.

The Strange Whim of a Lunatic.
A Man who Imagines Himself to be Filled With Electric Wires.

There is a man in one of the state insane asylums whose case presents a sad example. He is a dangerous lunatic now, and the history of his mania is briefly this:

Before the telephone was in actual public service, he became very much interested in the accounts of the scientific experiments in connection with the then imperfect instrument. His interest grew until it gradually absorbed his mind at all times.

During this process he showed the symptoms of nervous trouble; in fact, it was due to the weakened state of his nerves that the idea was enabled to seize him with all its force. Had his nerve centers been in good order he would have felt nothing more than the healthy interest which most persons take in such things. But neither he nor his friends, recognizing in his nervous condition the cause of his mania, it was neglected understand when he actually heard the voice at a telephone, his was completely deserted him.

At the present time he imagines that a telephone is secreted within him, and he holds conversations with an imaginary individual at the other end of the wire. He will shout: "Hello, hello, what's wanted?" and turning round to the visitor, say, "now, just hear him ring that bell as though I didn't hear him, and answer. Hello, hello, down there. Well, if he won't answer let him go. Then he gets angry and becomes dangerous. In this way a perfectly sane man was allowed to become insane because his nervous system was neglected.

While this is an extreme case, an exceedingly important moral may be drawn therefrom. It is this: If you suffer with nerves, don't neglect them. The indications are trifling but full of meaning.
Sleeplessness, headaches, poor appetite, pains in the back, weariness, absent-mindedness, a difficulty in remembering names or faces, and dizziness at odd moments are all symptoms of nervous disorder and are felt by thousands of people, not because of close attention to one particular subject has weakened their nerves, but because the dry, hard routine of business or domestic cares has rendered these

WHEAT MEN TALK.

The Anti-Option Measure Again up For Consideration Before the Agriculture Committee.

Chicago Brokers Heartily in Favor of a Law That Would Eradicate Illegality.

Senator Washburn Expresses Confidence in the Eventual Success of His Bill.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—The house committee on agriculture today continued its hearing on the bill defining options and futures. Mr. H. H. Aldrich, a member of the Chicago board of trade, said that that board was heartily in favor of the bill so far as it relates to the first clause. He said that upon the floor of the Chicago board of trade there was, as in all boards of trade a considerable amount of trade that was not proper and the board had spent several thousand dollars trying to prevent it and would welcome a law that would eradicate illegality.

In his opinion, however, this bill would be disastrous to the farmer. He contradicted the statement of Mr. Davis, who said yesterday that there was money tied up in Chicago that would move the whole crop. He said that in 1886 there was the largest kind of trade in Chicago and the commission merchants could not handle it and some wheat was delivered to people that were never paid for it. Answering a question by Mr. Moses, of Georgia, he said that supply and demand, not legislation, should regulate the prices. Business should be allowed to take its course. He could not make an estimate of fictitious sales in Chicago; no sales are recorded in the Chicago board of trade, not even actual sales and no record was kept of car loads sales or of samples.

He said in answer to a question by Mr. Hatch, whether the board declined to keep a record of fictitious sales in order to hide them from the public, that the question had never been discussed by the board. Privileges are not legal contracts. The board wants to get rid of fictitious trading. Such trading is only done in the corridors and on the streets. The cause of the prosperity of the nation is its large crops, and when Europe is short the demand increases prices. Privileges reduced prices, but the board was unable to stop them.

Mr. Sawyer, of Minneapolis, said railroads practically controlled prices of wheat in his vicinity. He hoped it was rich enough to handle wheat. The railroads are unable to ship all the wheat bought and what is left after shipments is sold to gamblers.

Still Harping on Rules.
In the house today the senate bill to pay West Virginia $150,000 under the district law was taken up. Mr. Wilson, of Missouri, objected to immediate consideration and the bill was referred. Senate bill to create a Fourth judicial district in Utah was passed. The consideration of the rules was then resumed.

THE ANTI-OPTION BILL.

Senator Washburn is Confident of its Adoption.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—It need create no surprise among those who oppose the bill, if the house committee on agriculture should report favoring its passage. The hearing before the committee yesterday was very interesting. Mr. Washburn said that he was opposed to the bill were present. A prominent Chicago man, who is opposed to the bill, said after the hearing closed that he would stake almost any amount of money that the committee would report it favorably. It is now believed that Senator Washburn will secure a favorable report from the senate committee. Whether it will pass both houses or not is now an uncertain thing.

A CLEVER PLAN.

Tariff Tinklers to Bring the Tariff Up for Discussion.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—It is said that a well-defined plan of action has been agreed upon by those democrats in congress who are opposed to Mr. Springer's tariff policy, by which it is hoped the ways and means committee can be embarrassed and compelled to report a sufficient number of tariff bills to make the discussion of that subject a practical assault all along the line. Resolutions will be offered instructing this committee to report bills putting various articles on the free list. These resolutions, it is said, have been distributed, and that within the next few days the house will be flooded with them. The start to be made by a resolution Mr. Fithian has in his pocket instructing the committee to report a bill putting farming implements upon the free list.

NOTES FROM THE CAPITAL.

Monument to be Erected to the Memory of Commodore Perry.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—In the senate today Mr. Washburn from the committee on commerce, reported adversely the bills for bridges across the Hudson and East river at New York. The latter was indefinitely postponed and the former was favorably reported making Newark, N. J., a port of entry.

Mr. Bruce introduced a bill for a monument at Put-in-Bay to Commodore Perry and those who took part in the battle on Lake Erie. Referred to the library committee. At 12:30, on motion of Mr. Hiscock, the senate went into executive session. When the doors were reopened the report confirming Senator Call, of Florida, in his seat was taken up.

Presidential Appointments.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—The President sent to the senate today the following nominations: Frank W. Oakley, of Wisconsin, to be United States marshal for the western district of Wisconsin. Peter Raquet, of Oregon, receiver of public moneys at Oregon City, Ore. A. S.

Baldwin, of Nebraska, register of the land office at North Platte, Neb. Postmasters: Minnesota—John Boreen, Stillwater; N. Castle, St. Paul; South Dakota—T. B. Roberts, Armons. North Dakota—J. J. Jordan, Fargo.

Corporations are Individuals.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—The house judiciary committee has authorized Mr. Culbertson to report the bill which provides substantially that a corporation is not deemed and shall not be a citizen for all judicial purposes of the state in which it may carry on its business.

SIR MORRELL MACKENZIE.

The Famous London Physician Expires Suddenly at His Home.

LONDON, Feb. 4.—Sir Morrell Mackenzie, the eminent physician, died unexpectedly at 10 o'clock tonight. Dr. Mackenzie was made a knight in 1877. Besides being consulting physician of the hospital for the disease of the throat, he was for some time physician to the London hospital and was the author of "Hygiene of the Vocal Organs" and other works.

His fame as a throat physician caused him to be called upon by recommendation of Queen Victoria to attend the late Emperor Frederick, then crown prince, when the affection of the throat, which ultimately proved fatal, began to develop itself seriously. Mackenzie took the ground that the affliction of the crown prince was not necessarily incurable, a position which, from a political standpoint, was highly important and gratifying to the crown prince and his English relatives, as well as to the German crown. His treatment which excited much attention.

LET US REJOICE.

The Louisiana "Something for Nothing" Lottery Closes Well.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 4.—John A. Morris, the principal officer and director of the Louisiana Lottery company, will give notice in the newspapers today that he intends to withdraw his proposition for the recharter of the company and accept the Louisiana lottery law. The concern will wind up its affairs and retire from the field, when the charter expires in 1904.

England at the Fair.

LONDON, Feb. 4.—The Standard in London writes that the Standard's comments on Col. Sadler's report by saying that nations of the whole world will be in competition there, and it is to be hoped that manufacturers and business men of Great Britain will awake to this great fact. At present it seems as if England will not realize the importance of the opportunity offered, as only 25,000 has been accorded it. It would be a serious mistake for England not to be adequately represented, and the government should arrange for all the space required by British exhibitors.

Distressing Accident at Elly.

ELY, Minn., Feb. 4.—[Special to the Herald.]—John H. Hurler, a teamster, was instantly killed at Lopers' logging camp at Eagle Nest Lake yesterday. He was riding on top of a load of logs, and in some manner it gave way, and in trying to jump to save himself, he missed his footing and fell. A large log rolled over him, breaking his back. He was well known here, and has a brother and sister living at this place. His remains were brought here from the camp last night.

Earthquake on the Coast.

PORTLAND, Ore., Feb. 4.—A severe earthquake shock occurred here at 8:30 last night. Brick buildings shook and windows rattled, terrifying the populace who, in many instances, rushed into the street. The shock lasted about 30 seconds and probably the most severe ever felt in this city.

At Astoria a distinct shock lasting about three seconds was felt at 8:27 o'clock. The vibrations were from southwest to northeast.

A Jacksonville Ball.

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., Feb. 4.—Tonight at the Ponce de Leon house the Ladies' Heritage association, of Nashville, Tenn., will give a grand ball in aid of project to purchase the Jackson relics for their association, which has for its object the preservation of Jackson's old homestead. H. M. Flagler gives the use of the hotel, the music and the supper, so that the sale of tickets will doubtless yield the association several thousand dollars.

Cleveland at Home.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—Ex-President Cleveland returned to his city tonight from his pleasure trip to the South. A number of reporters attempted to interview him on the political situation but the question was always cleverly evaded by Mr. Cleveland. On all the other subjects, however, he was voluble enough. He finally escaped from the reporters and left for his home at Lakewood, N. J.

The Rumors Denied.

OTTAWA, Feb. 4.—The rumors printed in Chicago this morning to the effect that a new trial had been granted to the slayers of Dr. Cronin are utterly without foundation. As well as can be learned the supreme court has not as yet prepared an opinion on the appeal from the lower court.

Plunged Over the Bridge.

PIEDMONT, W. Va., Feb. 4.—A Baltimore & Ohio freight train ran away on the 17-mile grade last night and 18 cars went over the Bloomingville bridge in the Potomac river. Michael O'Donnell, of Keyser, the fireman, is beneath the wreck. Two brakemen went down with the train but escaped with slight bruises.

Ministers Egan and Pereira Meet.

VALPARAISO, Feb. 4.—Minister of Foreign Affairs Pereira called at the United States legation yesterday and personally thanked Mr. Egan for Mr. Blaine's recent dispatch accepting Chile's reply to the ultimatum as satisfactory. The meeting was the most friendly character.

Gold by the Ship Load.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—The steamship La Bourgoyne, which arrived today from Havre, brought 1,500,000 francs in gold consigned to Lazard Freres in transit.

Purchase Money Mortgages Wanted.

IT MAY BE BOIES.

Admirers of Governor Boies Perfecting Arrangements to Push Him for President.

The Nebraska gubernatorial Imbroglio Still Unsettled; Thayer's Course Demanded.

He Refuses to Step Down and Out Until the Supreme Court Mandate Arrives.

DES MOINES, Ia., Feb. 4.—The democratic committee will meet late this afternoon to fix date and place of two state conventions. Several members have not yet arrived. Arrangements will be made to push Governor Boies' candidacy for president with great vigor.

THE NEBRASKA MUDDLE.

Would-be Governor Thayer Clings onto the Chair.

OMAHA, Neb., Feb. 4.—The gubernatorial imbroglio has resolved itself into a waiting game. Governor Boyd states that unless the office is voluntarily turned over to him by Thayer he will wait the issuance of the supreme court's decision. He is confident that the formal demand allowing for time of transmission and action of the state supreme court upon the mandate it will probably be March 4 before he will be restored to his office. Thayer sets up the claim that he received the office from the state supreme court and he will hold on to it until further notified by that court. His attitude is technically legal, but is generally denounced by men of all parties.

EXCITEMENT ON THE BOURSE.

Rumored That Extensive Frauds Have Been Perpetrated on Paris Bankers.

PARIS, Feb. 4.—There is considerable excitement on the bourse today owing, it is alleged, to the fact that several banks are in difficulty. The exact nature of the difficulties is not known, but the rumor is that extensive frauds have been perpetrated upon these financial institutions. It is known that several arrests have already been made in connection with the trouble and some startling developments may be expected shortly.

Republicans Getting in Line.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—The republican state executive committee has been called by Chairman Husted to meet in this city on Feb. 13. The early calling together of the state committee will be considered and also the time for holding the republican state convention to elect delegates-at-large to the national convention. It is thought that the meeting of the state convention will be held in April.

Grain Blockade in Kansas City.

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 4.—There is another grain blockade here and the Burlington has notified the members of the board of trade unless relief was given either by unloading or transferring, no more cars in the United States that he would not visit. This leads to the belief that if he is not taken care of he will be concerned in the trouble. The trouble is now under arrest in New Orleans. It was discovered that Fitzsimmons was in Chicago when the Snell murder was committed. Since then he would never go near Chicago and has told his friends many times that he was concerned in the trouble. Later—a telegram from New Orleans states that murderer Fitzsimmons, who recently fled from Detective Gilkinson and made a remarkable escape from the Allegheny county jail, cut his throat in the parish prison at New Orleans this morning and will die.

Spacie All Landed.

LONDON, Feb. 4.—Work upon the stranded Eider, ashore off Atherfield, Isle of Wight, was continued this morning. The great maritime experts who have examined the Eider say that the steamship is in a hopeless condition and that one of a single will ever float her. The salvage people are working like beavers to relieve the Eider of her cargo, for the vessel is the freight at the very bottom of her lower hold has already washed ashore, it is feared that there must be a terrible hole in her bottom. All the specie has been landed.

Two National Banks Close.

DEMING, N. M., Feb. 4.—James B. Lazar, national bank examiner for this district, upon orders from the controller of the currency, yesterday closed the doors of the National bank of Silver City and the First National bank of Deming. The two banks are allied. The capital stock of the former is $50,000 and of the home bank $100,000. It is impossible to obtain a statement of the assets, but it is claimed they will be sufficient to pay claims. All the county and school funds are in the bank.

Unitarians Will Not Attend.

LONDON, Feb. 4.—According to a statement made by James Spurgeon, the funeral of his brother, the noted preacher, which occurs on Thursday next, will be marked by an absence of unitarians. The heads of other religious denominations will be invited to attend.

Wooded the Fleckie Goddess.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—Mr. Henry Rosenfeld, of Chicago, is one who has wooed the fleckie goddess successfully. He has just returned from a visit to Monte Carlo where he won $80,000. With admirable judgment he has concluded to leave the gambling table for ever.

Veteran General Dead.

PARIS, Feb. 4.—Gen. Schmitz, who saw service in 14 campaigns, died here Tuesday. He was 75 years old. Gen. Schmitz was chief of staff under Gen. Trochu during the siege of Paris.

Killed Thirteen Men.

LEBANON, Feb. 4.—Willis Howard, the famous Kentucky desperado who killed 13 men in the famous Howard-Turner feud of two years ago, has been convicted of murder here and will hang.

"On or Before" Mortgages.

Now placed. Borrowers have the privilege of paying $100 or any multiple thereof at the end of each year from date of mortgage during life of loan. Bring in your application, no delay. WM. BARTON CHAPIN, 8 Phoenix block.

Was a Tough Character.

THOSE KIDNAPPERS.

A Relative of Young Waterbury Proves the Chief Conspirator.

GREENWICH VILLAGE, Conn. Feb. 4.—The substance of the confession made by one of the two men arrested last night for the kidnapping of little Ward Waterbury is to the effect that the chief conspirator is Charles E. Waterbury, the nephew of Charles F. Waterbury, whose child was stolen; he conceived the plan and induced others to go into it. Yesterday as soon as he learned the constables were on his track he disappeared, but it is said he will be arrested this morning. Knowing the devoted love of his uncle for his boy he calculated upon getting the money from the old man for a ransom and then he would leave the country. The failure of the father to meet the nephew at the bridge at midnight as requested caused Waterbury's fellow conspirators to weaken and they returned the boy as already published.

PRIEST AND ROYALTY.

A Priest Would Redeem France by Restoring the Catholic Kings.

PARIS, Feb. 4.—Father Barbe, a popular priest, has created a sensation by an attack on the government while preaching in the cathedral at Hazas, department of Gironde. The reverend father said that France was governed by executioners and sectarians, and that the only way to redeem the French government was to restore the ancient line of catholic kings. This utterance was greeted with hisses and shouts of protest and also some of approval. The great majority of the hearers were against the preacher and left the cathedral loudly condemning the priest and royalty and shouting for the republic. An indictment has been found against Father Barbe and he will be vigorously prosecuted.

WIGWAM FOR TAMMANY.

Will and His Warriors Will Battle on the Lake Front.

CHICAGO, Feb. 4.—The local committee of democrats to provide for the coming national convention has abandoned all hope of securing the exposition building and decided to build a wigwam capable of seating 15,000 people in which the convention will be held. A site on the lake front on which to erect the building will probably be secured.

Shot His Sweetheart.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—At a late hour last night Maggie Weissmuller, 20 years old, a servant employed by Mrs. Rhue at 24 East One Hundred and Twenty-sixth street, was shot and killed by Fredrick Zeller, a young man about her own age. Zeller and Miss Weissmuller were lovers. They had been out together during the evening and about 11 o'clock reached the girl's home. They stood in the doorway together for some time and finally Zeller put his arm around the girl's neck and with his disengaged hand drew a revolver which he placed against the girl's head and fired. It is stated that Zeller was insanely jealous of the girl.

Tascott! Where Art Thou?

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 4.—Police officials here think that Fred C. Fitzsimmons, the murderer met at Raleigh yesterday, is either Tascott or had a hand in the Snell murder. Fitzsimmons broke jail here several months ago and is now under arrest in New Orleans. It was discovered that Fitzsimmons was in Chicago when the Snell murder was committed. Since then he would never go near Chicago and has told his friends many times that he was concerned in the trouble. Later—a telegram from New Orleans states that murderer Fitzsimmons, who recently fled from Detective Gilkinson and made a remarkable escape from the Allegheny county jail, cut his throat in the parish prison at New Orleans this morning and will die.

The Spacie All Landed.

LONDON, Feb. 4.—Work upon the stranded Eider, ashore off Atherfield, Isle of Wight, was continued this morning. The great maritime experts who have examined the Eider say that the steamship is in a hopeless condition and that one of a single will ever float her. The salvage people are working like beavers to relieve the Eider of her cargo, for the vessel is the freight at the very bottom of her lower hold has already washed ashore, it is feared that there must be a terrible hole in her bottom. All the specie has been landed.

Two National Banks Close.

DEMING, N. M., Feb. 4.—James B. Lazar, national bank examiner for this district, upon orders from the controller of the currency, yesterday closed the doors of the National bank of Silver City and the First National bank of Deming. The two banks are allied. The capital stock of the former is $50,000 and of the home bank $100,000. It is impossible to obtain a statement of the assets, but it is claimed they will be sufficient to pay claims. All the county and school funds are in the bank.

Unitarians Will Not Attend.

LONDON, Feb. 4.—According to a statement made by James Spurgeon, the funeral of his brother, the noted preacher, which occurs on Thursday next, will be marked by an absence of unitarians. The heads of other religious denominations will be invited to attend.

Wooded the Fleckie Goddess.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—Mr. Henry Rosenfeld, of Chicago, is one who has wooed the fleckie goddess successfully. He has just returned from a visit to Monte Carlo where he won $80,000. With admirable judgment he has concluded to leave the gambling table for ever.

Veteran General Dead.

PARIS, Feb. 4.—Gen. Schmitz, who saw service in 14 campaigns, died here Tuesday. He was 75 years old. Gen. Schmitz was chief of staff under Gen. Trochu during the siege of Paris.

Killed Thirteen Men.

LEBANON, Feb. 4.—Willis Howard, the famous Kentucky desperado who killed 13 men in the famous Howard-Turner feud of two years ago, has been convicted of murder here and will hang.

"On or Before" Mortgages.

Was a Tough Character.

make immediate complaint at this office.

Entered at the postoffice at Duluth, Minn., as second-class mail matter.

Communications of not over 300 words, if not objectionable, will be used entire. More lengthy articles will, if space demands, have the verbiage extracted. Communications not of general interest to the public will be charged for at regular rates. Personal communications, if met at all, will be charged for invariably.

The Weather.

U. S. WEATHER BUREAU, DULUTH, MINN., Feb. 4.—A storm of light rain and snow over Kansas, and will probably move northwest and bring snow to this section by Friday afternoon.
A cold wave, with temperatures slightly below zero, is now moving across the country. The temperature is 15 below at Miles City, and from that it ranges up to 45 at Fort Smith.
25°, the lowest last night 24°.

DULUTH, Feb. 4.—Local forecast for Duluth and vicinity for Tuesday and Wednesday at 8 a. m. Feb. 5: Fair, followed by snow; colder; northerly wind.
B. H. BROOKS, Observer.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—For Wisconsin and Upper Michigan: Continued warm and generally warm weather; variable winds, becoming southerly; increasing cloudiness and rain of snow probably by Friday afternoon.
For South Dakota: Generally cloudy to clear, with light rain or snow tonight; colder and cloudy Friday and probably a cold wave.
For North Dakota: Generally fair to fair weather.
For Minnesota: Colder generally fair weather.

NOT WISE TO DO SO.

The morning News continues to blunder though the campaign is past. In its issue today it says:

It is the duty of the pulpit to inculcate good morals, because they are an essential feature of religion. Anything that will promote morality in the city is therefore a subject for consideration in the pulpit, and it is the honor of belief of the minister that only one candidate in an election is committed to a moral policy it is his privilege and also his duty to say so.
That is what the ministers of Duluth did.

The Herald does not believe that the ministers of Duluth themselves will endorse such sentiments. Certain it is that those of their number who are recognized as the wisest guides did not fall in line with such ideas. If the claim is true "where only one candidate is committed to a moral policy," then it must also be true when the minister thinks one is committed to a better moral policy than the other, and it can hardly happen that an election great or small should pass without the minister having such a conviction; and, indeed, it is ever a question of degree, for no one asserts there is not some moral principle on both sides.

As a result of such argument, if it is the "duty" of the minister under such conditions to champion the candidacy of some particular candidate, our pulpits would soon become nothing more than political rostrums and thereby lose their great power for good. We have never denied the right of a minister to talk about anything he wishes in the pulpit, but we question the wisdom and expediency of such a course. If the bench feels the restraint of its position, though no one questions the right of a judge to act as other men, why not also the pulpit?

There are those who believe with Gladstone that the tariff is a moral issue, but it would not be wise for a minister holding such views to hound his pulpit in pieces with a tariff speech. He can accomplish more good in another way, and therefore it is not his duty to tackle it. The ministers of Duluth are certainly aware that the News reiterated falsehoods throughout the campaign, and they must deplore such conduct, but we do not think it would be wise for them to do it. Their duty, to denounce the News from their pulpits and urge a larger circulation for The Herald, a truthful journal which moves on a higher moral plane. There are some questions which it is just as well to let other people settle among themselves to the end that the pulpit may keep its self above reproach and in the confidence of all. The Herald acknowledges no bounds in the field of the pulpit or press, but maintains that both should be wisely guided to subserve the greatest public good. The News and one or two pulpits in Duluth have of late shown the need of a managing editor.

NOT DOKAN NOW.

Paine's Cellary, alias News, alias nemesis, which had Paddy Doran already appointed chief of police and waiting word of d'Auteun's election to be sworn in, now admits there was nothing in it and that J. K. Shaw is most likely to receive that honor. On by one the campaign falsehoods fall and the good people peer into the dugout where they sprouted in the dark. It was malignity from beginning to end.

The Herald is in receipt of a marked copy of the Voice, the national organ of the prohibition party, published in Tannery town, in which it is charged that copies of that paper, prepaid by a special fund and mailed to farmers throughout the country, are not delivered at the point of destination. As 100,000 copies are sent out weekly in this way the matter is a serious one. It is supposed by the Voice that the party in power fears its cry in the wilderness, and therefore throws every obstacle in its way. If there are any farmers in Duluth too busy splitting rails or getting ready for their spring plowing to attend to the matter, if they will send us the facts we will see that no guilty man escapes.

The Herald is in receipt of several communications on election matters, the publication of which would, we think, serve no public end, and without any criticism on their contents we deem it wise to give our readers a rest. Gallantry requires, however, that we make an exception in the case of a lady whose communication, more candid than the rest, appears elsewhere, in which it is set forth, as The Herald suggested last summer, that church services might be held on week days to the end that the modern Sabbath should be truly a day of rest and recreation.

The telegraph murmurs from Washington that the house committee having the Washburn anti-opium bill in charge will make a favorable report and that it will pass that body by a vote of four to one. Senator Washburn also claims that it will be favorably reported from the senate committee and run the gamut let at that end of the capitol. If the provisions of the bill as passed are such as were originally reported, the measure will arouse much feeling among men actively interested in the grain markets of the West.

The effort being made by Rev. Wm.
Barker, of St. Paul's church, to add a new delight to the leisure hours of our youth by organizing a club with well-equipped quarters for the purpose, is an undertaking that should receive the heartiest encouragement of all. A growing city like Duluth affords a vast field for enterprises of this kind, and it is well for our future that all these institutions of culture and happiness be established now.

If Chief of Police McQuade is going to recommend Capt. Dan Horgan for the head of that department in his coming report, as is stated by a morning paper, how does it happen that the esteemed Samuel has not heretofore resigned to give Daniel the job? Then would the Danites be now in charge of the city and we could better judge of their fitness.
There seems to have been some forgetfulness in this matter.

The battle for a deep waterway to the sea goes on at Washington, and the favor with which our enterprise is received among the national solons tells plainly of the advantage we have gained through the visits of congressmen and correspondents to our shores last season. It was the best investment of the kind our people ever made, and the seed sown is yielding a bountiful harvest.

The Tribune squared itself with the union printers February 1 and has since braced up materially in contents and quality. We welcome it to the fold of true journalism and trust it may not again digress. The story of Charles Long's vote is not to be deemed the full measure of our esteemed but erstwhile wayward contemporary's circulation.

Now let us all gird up our loins and get together on terminal matters. The securing of ample terminal facilities for all railways is of more vital and immediate importance to Duluth than even the great problem of a deep waterway to the sea. They should go hand in hand. Let us clamber to the fore in this enterprise.

Grand Rapids on the Winnipeg is having a fight over a 30-year electric light franchise granted at a special meeting of the village council. As our little sister is starting in new she should be careful of the conditions on which al-franchises are granted and should calculate to her own advantage the large amount of moonlight weather.

Our friend, the old soldier, is getting weary of his foot friends. A bill has been introduced in congress to give him free admission to the World's fair. The drop-a-nick-in-the-slot business has become so patronizing as to disgust the veterans themselves.

Secretary Blaine celebrated his 64th birthday on Sunday, Jan. 31. When we consider that Gladstone is his senior by twenty years, it seems out of place to think of the Plumed Knight as old. May he live to see three score and ten and many more.

The Herald office is putting in type the annual financial statement of St.
Louis county for the year ending Jan. 4, 1892, which will be ready for publication sometime next week. It will appear in extra pages with the regular edition of The Evening Herald.

When the next mayoralty campaign comes around both Lakeside and West Duluth will take a whirl in it and with the growth of the city the total vote cast ought to be fully 10,000, for we have that many voters in our whole population now.

The local campaign and the war with Chile having been settled without bloodshed it behoves us all to move on in the triumphs of commerce and the conquests of peace.

The change of municipal government occurs on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in March, which this year will be on the 8th, the latest date on which it can ever occur.

The Tribune complains that the republicans do not attend to their duty.
May be they are weary of high tariffs and want free raw materials.

The only wide-open thing about the d'Auteun crowd is their headquarters, and no one ought to complain of this so long as they pay the rent.

There are the best of reasons for believing that if Long had been withdrawn from the field d'Auteun would still have been elected.

When voters join in a sort of landslide their convictions must be well grounded.

LITERARY NOTES.

What is to be found in Some of the February Magazines and Periodicals.
Outing for February is filled from cover to cover with interesting and instructing reading matter embellished with a great number of beautiful illustrations. In these dull winter days one might imagine that it would be impossible to obtain fresh material for a magazine like Outing, but the publishers are equal to the situation and certainly submit a most charming lot of it in the February number.

Timeliness is the striking characteristic of several of the principal contributions to the North American Review for February. In the van of the strong and attractive table of contents is an able article entitled "How to Attack the Tariff," by the Hon. William M. Springer, the chairman of the committee on ways and means of the present house of representatives. Literature and music are not overlooked in this magazine, on ways and means of the present house of representatives. W. Clark Russell, the famous writer of stories of the sea, in "A Claim for American Literature," tells what R. H.
Dana Jr., in "Two Years Before the Mast," and Herman Melville, in several books, did in depicting vivid accuracy the life of the sea.

A most unique magazine is the February Ladies' Home Journal, entirely made up, as is its prose, verse and fiction, by daughters of famous persons.
Some of the "daughters" being famed themselves. The issue is in every respect a surprise, and is a powerful argument in behalf of hereditary genius.
None of the Journal's departments are only the "daughters" of famous persons, occupying the fore-part of the magazine, while Dr. Talmage, "Bob" Burdette, Margaret G. Motome and all the other Journal editors for the rearward.

The February Arena will be read with interest by thoughtful people. Its papers are all readable, many of them very strong. Among the contents is a frontispiece, Herbert Spencer, a very fine portrait of the great philosopher, "Herbert Spencer's Life and Work," by W. H.
Hudson, for many years Mr. Spencer's private secretary, "Danger Ahead," a thoughtful discussion of the electoral college problem; "A Spoil of Office," second part of Mr. Hamlin Garland's great novel of the modern West. The Arena has long since been recognized as indispensable to thoughtful people. No other great review is in such sympaty with progressive and reformative thought as this magazine.

It is with pleasure that we receive from Messrs. Macmillan & Co. a copy of Mrs.
Humphry Ward's eagerly-expected novel, "The History of David Greive." Mrs. Ward has shown herself to be a writer of incontestable genius. Like George Eliot, she has once more taught us that fiction, far from being a merely superficial representation of passing situations and emotions, may grapple with
tragic, and a masterpiece of its kind.
Long's view is not to be deemed the full measure of our esteemed but erstwhile
wayward contemporary's circulation.

The Review of Reviews has begun to impress many if not all of its readers with the idea that it has an unerring instinct in divining the man of the month.
This month it finds that David B. Hill is more conspicuous than any other man before the American public, and it presents to the country at large more about Mr. Hill than has ever been told before. The two men, a tall, slender, yellow haired, as yellow hair characterized its first inhabitants.

Chicago has written an article on Hill for the February number of Harper's Magazine, in which he says:
"Chicago will be the main exhibit at the Columbian exposition of 1892. No matter what the agricultural and stock exhibits, there is no matter what the Eiffel-Tower-like chief exhibit may be, the city itself will be the most important exhibit of the exhibition. Those who go to study the world's progress will find no other result of human force so wonderful, extravagant, or peculiar."

The modern Review, especially as it has been developed in America, is an entirely new literary product, a prodigious timeliness with thoroughness of treatment. The peculiar and now indispensable service rendered by the Review is well illustrated by the forum, which has been pronounced by the most thoughtful readers, and is regarded as the best illustration of the modern product of American periodical enterprise. It is found wherever men think, and is indispensable alike to the serious-minded man of affairs and to the scholar.

Sir Edwin Arnold, who has been enjoying an interesting trip through the United States, has made a careful study of the conditions which govern the family in Japan and embodies his ideas in a paper called "Love and Marriage in Japan" in the February number of the Cosmopolitan. The article is illustrated by the quaintest possible Japanese sketches running down the sides of the column across the bottom of each page. The "Story of the Brazilian Republic" by Adams, late minister to that country; and "The Leading Amateurs of the United States in Photography" are other leading articles of the month.

Will find life's voyage all too short.

Names of Countries and Places.
(New York Post.)
The following countries were thus named by the Phoenicians, the greatest commercial people of the ancient world.
These names in the Phoenician language, superficial representation of passing sit-
tragic, and a masterpiece of its kind.

Europe, signifies a country of white complexions; so named, because the inhabitant there were a fairer complexion than those of Asia and Africa.
Asia signifies between, or in the middle, from the fact that geographers placed it between Europe and Africa.
Africa signifies the land of corn and easy; it was celebrated for its abundance of corn and all sorts of grain.
Spain, a country of rabbits and cones; this country was so infested with these animals that Augustus was petitioned to destroy them.

Italy, a country of pitch.
Caledonia, a modern France, signified yellow
first inhabitants.
Rhodes, serpents or dragons, which it produced in abundance.
Sicily, the whirlpool of destruction.
Syracuse, signifies bad savor, from the unwholesome marsh on which it stood.
Etna, signifies a furnace, or dark and smoky.

THE DISTRICT COURT

The First Verdict in the Civil Calendar Returned This Morning by the Petit Jury.

E. I. Bradley Given Damages in Contemnation in the Sum of $250 on Increase of $250.

Two Indictments Already Returned by the Grand Jury and More to Follow.

The first verdict of the February term of the district court was returned this morning in the case of Bradley vs. the Street Railway company, an appeal from the award of the commissioners in condemnation. The verdict of the jury gave Mr. Bradley damages in the sum of $250. By the award of the commissioners he was given $300. J. Arthur Robert, appellant, vs. Duluth Street Railway company, a similar case, is now being tried. It may go to the jury this afternoon. In Martha Miller vs. Edward E. Collins, a case for breach of contract, there being no appearance on the part of the defendant, the court rendered judgment for the plaintiff.

Other cases were disposed of this morning as follows: S. J. Carrick, administrator, vs. Duluth & Iron Range Railroad company, continued; Margaret Eyster vs. William F. Maron, Kate Culver Whitehead, et al., placed at foot of calendar, and I. Freimuth vs. G. H. Holden, transferred from jury to court calendar. On the civil calendar the case on call is Ohio Coal company vs. Henry Ohlberg and Charles Peterson, co-partners.

The grand jury so far has returned two indictments. The first is against John Lohy charged with assault in the second degree. Lohy is alleged to have stabbed a citizen who was assisting an officer in the discharge of his duty. The affair occurred on the Mesaba range. The other indictment is against Elmer Pettit who is charged with having stolen a diamond ring from the residence of H. W. Pearson and who was arrested in Minneapolis while hiding in a tenement. The indictment against him is for grand larceny in the second degree. John Gelant, who has been held for some time in the county jail on a charge of forgery was discharged yesterday afternoon on motion of the county attorney, the grand jury having failed to find an indictment against him. He was given a lecture by Judge Ensign and discharged. The grand jury was in session all this morning, but as yet have returned no further indictments.

THE VICTOR AND THE SPOLLS.

Rumor Already Burying the Division of the City Officers Among the Democrats.

Mr. d'Auremont's election was hardly assured before the political war ones were beginning to divide up the appointive offices under the new regime. The most important office under the mayor is the chief of police. This place is not yet definitely filled as yet, but will probably go to J. K. Shaw. The Herald has on good authority that the position will be tendered him. Chief McGuire will recommend Dan Horgan, and if Mayor Davis had remained in office the present captain would have received his well deserved promotion. A change in the head of the department may make some alterations among the subordinates, but not much. The mayor has also this spring to appoint a member of the board of public works, a member of the board of fire commissioners, a member of the board of health, and two members of the health board. These latter must be members of the council. Dr. Pechan also retired from the board but his place must be filled by an election of the council. Who the mayor will appoint for these offices is not yet announced and it is doubtful if he himself can tell who they will be. Dr. Goffe, the health officer, holds over another year and is in no way affected by the change. Mr. Cooley, the city assessor, will have a successor not yet decided upon. For the office of city attorney there are numerous men who would accept the place. Mr. Allen, if he desires it, can probably secure a reelection, as he has proved a very capable official, but it is very doubtful if he desires another term. City Clerk Burke will probably succeed himself. He has been a popular and a capable official and will not have a hard row to hoe in securing another term.

MARRIED A MADMAN.

One of Gotham's "Cremes de la Creme" Secures a Divorce in Dakota. BROOKINGS, S. D., Feb. 4.—Judge Andrews today granted a divorce to Mrs. Olin Davis Young, who belongs to the well-known Davis family, for years prominent in Gotham society circles. The father of the defendant, Jesse Young, is the late lord mayor and high sheriff of London. The defendant is now thought to be at Mexico City. Mr. and Mrs. Young were married at St. Thomas church, Fifth avenue, New York city, June 2, 1890. During the ceremony the groom began to act strangely, and from that time exhibited signs of insanity. He treated his bride shamefully and their honeymoon lasted but a week. She returned to her mother with the cry: "I have married a madman." It is thought Young is an opium fiend.

FOUGHT FOR LIBERTY.

Two Pennsylvanians Make a Desperate Fight to Escape Arrest. HARRISBURG, Pa., Feb. 4.—Two men, who gave their names as David Binkley, of Lancaster, and James Marshall, of Philadelphia, were arrested today after they had dangerously wounded John Switzer, of this city, but two balls into the shoulder and arm of Officer Charles Yngst and one in the wrist of a colored boy.

The men after starting a row in a saloon were forced to the outside. They were pursued by a large crowd as they sought to make their escape. When pursued closely they turned on their pursuers and fired. John Switzer was hit in the back, the ball lodging in the lungs. Binkley was driven to a coal bin in which he made a desperate defense, and Officer Yngst fired several shots at him without effect, but Binkley was more accurate and Yngst was shot twice. The men were overpowered.

DESERTED AND DESTITUTE.

The Sad Case of a Young German who Loved a Wisely. A rather pathetic case of destitution and desertion has been reported to the authorities, and with a sad sort of romance in it. Some months ago, nearly a year, a German girl employed in the city as a domestic fell in love with a fellow-countryman of hers, Carl Lauerdorf. Mathilda Bowler was her name and she had always borne a good reputation for industry and thrift. Her love was unfortunate, however, for it was another case of "not wisely but too well." The girl soon found herself in a position where a husband's care was very necessary to her and she appealed to Lauerdorf to carry out his promise and make her his wife. He did not refuse to do this, but neglected the matter until finally she was about to begin a criminal action against him. Then he decided that the honest course was the best one and he made the girl his wife. This was some five months ago and since then the two have lived together. He was employed at the Fitter brewery and he, too, seems to have been a sober and honest workman. Some days ago, just before his wife's confinement, he left Duluth saying he was going to look after a farm which he owns in the western part of the state. His wife thought nothing of the matter other than it was strange he should want to be away at such a time. Her baby was born and she began to be anxious about the non-return of her husband. She spoke to friends of hers about the matter and they looking upon his absence as decidedly remarkable decided to look up his whereabouts. A telegram was sent to the place where he was supposed to be and the fact came out that he was not and had not been there since leaving Duluth. It is understood that when going from here he took with him about $200 which his wife had saved up while a servant girl. He represented to her that he wanted this to clear a mortgage on the farm in question. Since Lauerdorf left Duluth nothing has been heard from him, and it is quite certain that he did not apply his wife's money to the purpose for which it was given him. This being true, there seems no doubt but that he deliberately deserted his wife at a time when she needed him most. It is also said that he sold his farm, and with the proceeds has departed, intending never to come back. This, however, would not take from her wife share in the farm, as she has not signed any papers transferring it, and is dead without her consent would not be legal.

WORLD OF COMMERCE

The New York Stock Market Was Bull Today and Declined Somewhat on a Slight Pressure on Sell.

The Local Grain Market Opens a Fraction Higher and Regains a Little of Its Out-Time Interest.

Cables Were Lower, but the Report That Minneapolis Had 3,000,000 bu for Shipment Firmly Up Prices.

The market took a little turn this morning after the long downward pull, starting at 1/4c higher than yesterday's close on both grades of May wheat and firming up a shade with some fluctuations in the forenoon. Cables were weaker and lower especially those of England and France. But export reports that Minneapolis had worked 3,000,000 bushels of wheat for immediate shipment had a tendency to greatly react against the downward turn of the last week. Reports from Kansas on the other hand were not so encouraging and wheat at interior points was withheld on account of present prices. The clearances of wheat and flour from New York were about 35,000 bu yesterday.

There was a fair demand here today in the lower grades of cash wheat for milling purposes. There was also an excellent demand with large lot trading in the May futures. The afternoon session was active on the up grade, both on the May futures and in cash. The close was active and firm at an advance of from 1/8c to 1/4c all around over yesterday's closing except in the lower grades of cash, which closed unchanged.

Cash No. 1 hard ruled dull and sluggish, but advanced in price steadily, closing at 2c advance for the day at 85c. On track wheat selling at 85c late and closing at the same figure. On track wheat closed with 1/4c advance at 83 1/2c. Cash No. 2 northern had a good demand, selling at 77c and closing at 77 1/2c. Cash No. 3 northern closed at 75c. THE SUPREME COURT.

Some Important Decisions Handed Down Yesterday.

The following decisions were handed down by the supreme court yesterday: Bessie J. Van Doren, respondent, vs. Albert Barley, appellant. Syllabus: Declarations or admissions of an agent not binding in the course of the agency unless the agent is authorized to make such declarations or admissions.

COMPOSITION OF BOND. Jonas J. Brown, appellant, vs. Sumner W. Farnham, surviving partner, etc., respondent. Syllabus: A composition deed executed by a debtor and his creditors in due form operates as a settlement of the original claims of such creditors and supersedes the cause of action thereon.

Whereas a married woman by direction and sanction of her husband and acting under the power of attorney attempted to make a sale and conveyance of his land, an improved farm, for a consideration paid, and executed thereunder a deed, the deed is invalid on account of the wife's disability, but if the husband is deceased and the deed is accepted by the purchaser with knowledge of the facts, acquiesces in the transaction and the possession of the purchaser and his assigns for many years, he will be stopped to deny that the latter is the equitable owner in his own possession of the premises. Judgment affirmed.
